IS HUNGARY MISUSED BY THE CZECHS?

Country Asserted to Have Suffered Unjustly Under "Twisted and Distorted" Treaty of Trianon

READJUSTMENT OF CONDITIONS URGED

Peace Delegates Got Weary With Task Only Half Done and Czech-Slovakia Profited, Is Charge

By Viscount Rothermere

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Parliament with the Allies during the war was the desire that when peace came it should be permanent. Whatever else victory might bring, the men and women of the Allied Nations wanted it to insure that there should be no more Alsace-Lorraine to keep the war spirit smouldering.

It was the professed aim of the Peace Conference, when it gathered in Paris in 1919, to rearrange the map of Europe on a basis of self-determination. But as its work went on, this principle faded from sight. The result has been that Central Europe today is piled high with the materials for a new conflagration.

The primary cause of this is the partitioning of the Hungarian nation among its neighbors by the Treaty of Trianon imposed upon Hungary in June, 1920, which transferred in compact masses contiguous with the main body of the Hungarian people 600,000 Hungarians to Roumania (out of a total of 1,750,000 most of whom are intermingled with the Roumanians), 1,000,000 to Czech-Slovakia and 400,000 to Yugoslavia.

In the peace treaty made with Germany the principle of self-determination was so thoroughly applied that a plebiscite was even held in Schleswig to revise the frontier which the Prussians had imposed upon the Danes in 1864.

But with the signing of the Treaty of Versailles the principal Allied statesmen relaxed their efforts. The task of settling with their chief enemy had been a prodigious one. Their powers of personal application were exhausted. The affairs of their own countries urgently claimed their attention. The drafting of peace terms with Germany's minor allies seemed to them a secondary matter they might well leave to the subordinate members of their delegations.

PEACE FORK ONLY HALF DONE
For similar reasons the world's interest in peacemaking evaporated and the light of publicity which had been concentrated on the work of the conference was withdrawn. In reality only half the work of restoring a lasting peace to Europe had been done.

SIAMESE TWINS IN LONDON DIE

Girl Babies, Recently Born, Had Two Distinct Hearts, Considerable Unity of Organs

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The birth of Siamese twins, Mary and Ann Church, to a Pimlico workman and his wife last Friday, aroused considerable interest in the medical world, but the pair died today. Ann was the weaker of the two and shortly after they came into the world it was thought she could not live. The question of performing an operation in the hope Mary might survive was considered, but this was found impracticable. Ann died two minutes before her sister. This indicated that there were two hearts in the twins and therefore two distinct lives.

An X-ray examination had previously shown that the twins were not merely joined by nine inches of layer skin at the stomach, as was at first supposed, but that there was a unity of their organs to a large extent. Although each had a complete equipment of limbs, X-rays showed that the internal organs were very much intermingled.

No Word From Flyers Since Departure

Shipping Handled Here During Last Six Months Totals 3,526,101 Tons

WITH shipping figures for August showing another increase over the previous month, the amount of tonnage handled here since March, when the record of shipping was first started by Mr. Roger Pinneo, has passed the 3,000,000-ton mark.

Mr. A. E. Todd, industrial adviser to the City Council, announced yesterday that 424 ships were handled at this port, inwards and outwards, last month. These ships were of 721,637 registered tons. While the registered tonnage shows a slight decrease as compared with the month of July, the number of vessels handled shows a substantial increase. The shipping handled during the month of July amounted to 418 ships of 708,633 registered tons.

RAILWAY SMASH TAKES 2 LIVES

Tribute Paid to Heroic Work of Railwaymen Who Stuck to Their Posts to the Last Moment

INQUIRY MAY BE HELD TODAY

CALGARY, Sept. 7.—Official investigation by Canadian Pacific Railway officials will probably be held Thursday, into the collision between the second section of their eastbound and westbound passenger trains at Dalmeny, Wednesday morning, which resulted in the death of an engineer and a fireman. Until statements are received from the train crews concerned the responsibility will not be placed.

The accident happened between 3:40 and 4:45 a.m. The second section of eastbound No. 2 train left Calgary on time and the westbound No. 1 train was due to arrive at 4:45 a.m. The westbound train, with J. W. Fay, of Calgary, as engineer, and E. W. Winfield, also of Calgary, as fireman, was moving up to the west end of the yard when the crash came. The eastbound train was to have taken the switch and allowed the westbound to pass, but instead it passed the switch entrance and crashed head-on into the other train. Fay and Winfield were instantly killed. Others on the train suffered only minor injuries.

Word of the accident was immediately sent to Calgary and Medicine Hat, and wrecking trains were sent out promptly, carrying medical aid. Passengers arriving in Calgary paid tribute to the heroic work of Fay and Winfield in sticking to their posts and trying to save lives of those on their train. They applied the emergency brakes when they saw the crash was imminent, thus probably avoiding more serious loss of life.

Dog Detective to Take Trail Again

SEATTLE, Sept. 7.—Arnold von Minkfeld is to "hit the trail" again. This time Arnold, Seattle's dog detective, whose supernatural powers have won him fame far and wide, will be taken to Paulson, B.C., in an effort to find some trace of an aged miner who disappeared on July 19. A request for Arnold's services was received today by his trainer, A. T. Sanderlin, from A. H. Zinsley, of Portland, Oregon, a friend of the missing man.

Delegates Join in Geological Visit

CALGARY, Sept. 7.—Delegates to the Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress spent an interesting day at Banff today. Apart from the many parties who played golf or spent the day resting, a geological expedition was organized to Canmore, which proved highly successful. The delegates show great interest in the geological formations during the journey. Dr. MacKay acted as guide to the party.

A last minute change in the itinerary was announced during Wednesday, which will allow of an additional day being spent by the delegates at Banff. Owing to the heavy recent rains in the Calgary district the visit to the city and to the Turner Valley oil wells in the neighborhood has been cancelled.

Revision of Liquor Laws to Come First

WINNIPEG, Sept. 7.—The Provincial Legislature will not convene until the law officers of the Crown have had full opportunity to complete the revision of the existing liquor laws satisfactorily and to provide for the new amendment, according to a statement issued by Premier Bracken, following a lengthy Cabinet meeting today.

PRINCES ARE ON WAY BACK TO ENGLAND

Amid Farewells From Huge Crowd Prince of Wales and Prince George Leave for Home

EMPRESS LINER DAILY DECORATED

Royal Passengers Remain on Scotland's Bridge Responding to Cheers of Those Seeing Them Off

QUEBEC, Sept. 7.—Three hearty cheers and a tiger were Quebec's farewell to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and his younger brother, Prince George, when the pair, together with their staff, sailed for home aboard the Canadian Pacific Empress of Scotland, under command of Captain Turnbull.

The royal visitors got their last glimpse of the port of Quebec from the Scotland's bridge, where both princes stood in full view of the huge crowd, repeatedly saluting and doffing hats in order to respond to the cheers and shouts with which they were acclaimed.

They boarded the giant liner, which is the flagship of the Canadian Pacific Line, at the Empress of Scotland's wharf, a few minutes before the gangway was scheduled to be hoisted ashore and immediately responded to the cheers and shouts which they mounted the bridge. At the foot of the gangway Captain Turnbull, skipper of the Empress of Scotland, greeted the travelers and personally showed them to their suites.

SHIP GAILY DECORATED

The liner was gaily decorated in honor of the occasion on the departure for the royal visitors after their thirty-eight-day stop in Canada, while vessels in port were bedecked with bunting and flags of all descriptions.

Salvo after salvo of cheers greeted the appearance of the Prince of Wales and Prince George, and the continued until long after the ship had pulled out into midstream and had disappeared from sight.

NOTABLE LIST CARRIED

The Scotland, in addition to the two princes and their suite, which was composed of Brigadier-General Sir John Carling, Major the Hon. P. W. Leach and A. V. Lascelles, carried a notable list of passengers, among whom was one of the leading biologists in the Empire, Dr. E. B. Poulton, in the person of Sir Charles Redmayne, of the Imperial Institute of London, returning home after having attended the meeting of the Royal Society in Montreal.

Hon. Angus MacDonald, M.P., of London, returning home to England after a vacation on this side of the Atlantic; the Very Rev. J. J. MacDonnell, Vicar-General of Alexandria, and a prominent member of the Scottish hierarchy, were also on board.

Other passengers included Messrs. W. S. Morrice, a prominent businessman, Edmund Burke, Canadian singer, and numerous visiting Canadians and Americans.

Aviators Offer to Make Search for Old Glory Plane

HARBOR GRACE, Nfld., Sept. 7.—Phil Wood and Duke Schiller, co-pilots of the monoplane Royal Windsor, tonight offered to turn their Windsor-to-Windsor transatlantic flight into an air search for the last known location of the Old Glory plane at the flying field here tonight they said.

"We offer the Royal Windsor to search for the Old Glory plane," said the aviators. "We will take a full tank of gasoline, starting Thursday morning, to make an exhaustive search for Old Glory."

They knew the exact course the ship was steering as, Wood, in conversation with Bertaud yesterday morning discussed the one hundred and seventy-fourth magnetic course as the most probable for reaching Bordeaux.

Plans to give the flyers the latest information on the last known location of the Old Glory and progress of the search for her were immediately formulated.

EPIDEMIC STOPS SCHOOLS OPENING

Three Fresh Cases of Infantile Paralysis Reported at Edmonton—No Further Deaths Reported

EDMONTON, Sept. 7.—The death list in the epidemic of infantile paralysis which has been raging here for several weeks still stands at nine today, no deaths being reported in the twenty-four hours. Three fresh cases were reported by the health department this morning, bringing the total to seventy since the start of the last known location of the Old Glory and progress of the search for her were immediately formulated.

RUMOR IS DENIED

TORONTO, Sept. 7.—Mr. Charles A. Smith, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, today gave an emphatic denial to the rumor that he was seeking the leadership of the Conservative Party of the Dominion. He does not even intend going to the Winnipeg convention, he said.

VICTORIANS SEE TRAGEDY IN NEW YORK

Mr. Donald Cameron Receives Lettergram Telling of Shooting and Fall From Window

PASSER-BY IS HIT BY HURLING BODY

Innocent Pedestrian Goes to Hospital With Broken Neck—Other Man to Place in City Morgue

MR. and Mrs. James Cameron, of Victoria, had a tragic experience while in New York, en route to the American Legion convention to be held in Paris. It was learned in a night lettergram received yesterday by his brother, Mr. Donald Cameron. It is a case where truth is stranger than fiction.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron were walking down one of the main streets of New York Tuesday afternoon. They were returning to the hotel from a shopping tour to dress for dinner, which they were to have at the home of Mr. Cameron's cousin, Mrs. Ruth McCrory.

As they were walking down the street they heard a shot fired. The next thing that happened was that a man fell from the window on the fifth floor of an office block, apparently killed by someone in his office. The man fell only a few feet away from Mr. and Mrs. Cameron and other passer-by. His body struck a man, who was walking in the same direction as Mr. Cameron. The pedestrian's back was broken by the impact.

The police ambulance was summoned and both men taken away, one to the hospital and the other to the morgue. When Mr. and Mrs. Cameron returned to the hotel they bought an "extra." From it they learned that the injured pedestrian was Mr. McCrory, husband of Mrs. Cameron's cousin, Ruth McCrory. Mr. Cameron had never met Mr. McCrory, but was to have been introduced to him that night.

ANOTHER LINER JOINS IN SEARCH

Not the slightest information of the Stinson-Detroit monoplane, Sir John Carling, bound from London, Ont., to London, Eng., has been received since early Wednesday morning when, a few minutes after the take-off from Harbor Grace, she was reported passing a point barely thirty miles away.

Possibility that the monoplane, Old Glory, was speeding on her way to Rome while flyers continued to search the Atlantic under the position given in her mysterious SOS call is being recognized by aviation authorities.

Failure of any ship, despite the proximity of several, to find the slightest trace of the plane, plus thorough preliminary planning for the expedition and the painstaking trout of the mechanical equipment, combined to form a picture that the distress signal may have been caused by a minor and temporary mishap.

Some of those close to members of the crew, James Dewitt Hill and Lloyd Bertaud, pilots, and Phil Payne, passenger, refused to admit that any serious attempt was made to search the sea in which the missing monoplane Old Glory was last heard from without avail and that he was proceeding on his voyage. The message was sent to the ship.

NEARLY 300 KOREANS REPORTED DROWNED

TOKYO, Sept. 8.—Two hundred and eighty Koreans are reported to have been drowned when a ferry boat capsized, Tuesday, near Katsuh, Kokoiso Province. Dispatches to the Tokyo newspaper Jiji say only six were rescued out of a total of 286 passengers. No other bodies have been recovered.

JUDGMENT IN LOTUS CASE IS RENDERED

Permanent Court at Hague Decides Turkey's Action Not Violation of International Law

THE HAGUE, Sept. 7.—The permanent Court of International Justice today pronounced judgment in the Lotus case between France and Turkey, holding that Turkey's action did not constitute a violation of the principles of international law. The judges were equally divided, the president of the court cast the deciding vote.

The so-called Lotus case grew out of the collision between the French mail steamer Lotus and the Turkish coast vessel Bodrum in Greek waters, near Mytilene, on August 4, 1925. Eight members of the Bodrum's crew were lost.

The Turkish authorities arrested Lieut. Demons, commander of the Lotus, and held him despite protests from the French Government. Subsequently he was tried, convicted and sentenced to six days' imprisonment. Later he was allowed to return home pending an appeal.

No Trace Seen of Plane St. Raphael

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Sept. 7.—Colonial Secretary Bennett announced today that nothing was seen along the Labrador coast of the missing plane St. Raphael or its occupants by the Government mail steamer Kyle, which arrived this morning at St. Anthony in Northern Newfoundland. The Kyle pilot fortuitously between St. John's and Labrador.

He added that similar reports had been received from the steamer Sagana, plying between Belle Isle and St. John's, and the northwestern coast of Newfoundland and from several wireless stations on the northern coast and in Labrador.

Canadian Aviators Organize Air League

COLONEL P. H. MULOCK
A new Air League has been formed by Canadian aviators, similar in scope and function to the Air League of the British Empire, and Colonel P. H. Mulock, one of Canada's foremost aviators, has been appointed as the provincial committee of the chief representative of Western Canada.

15,000 Gnu Are Doing Their Best To Digest Fences

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The pet of the crossword puzzle is not the pet of the African farmer, says the Transvaal correspondent of The Times. As a result of a very serious drought, he reports 15,000 gnus are overrunning the Rhodesia country, dining on wire fences as well as on the grass required for cattle.

NO LIGHT SHED ON FLYERS' FATE

Possibility Is Entertained That Old Glory May Yet Be Speeding on Her Way Towards Rome

ANOTHER LINER JOINS IN SEARCH

WORLD FLYERS MUST WARM UP

SCHLEE AND BROCK BEHIND SCHEDULE SET BY WELLS AND EVANS

Men in Air, However, Have Been Able to Keep Flying by Night—Leave Rangoon

RANGOON, British India, Sept. 7.—With another stretch of dangerous flying country behind them, Wm. S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, in the Pride of Detroit, arrived here from Calcutta at 2:18 p.m. today, after a flight of 2,100 miles.

The distance between the two points is 665 miles, and the American aviators now have covered 8,000 of their 22,000-mile journey. In the face of rains and storm winds after leaving Calcutta early in the morning, the aviators made good progress, their plane averaging 100 miles an hour. Midway along and until they reached their destination conditions were favorable and the Pride of Detroit maintained its reputation for reliability.

The aviators' next stop will be Bangkok, Siam, for which they hope off as early as possible tomorrow morning.

ARE BEHIND SCHEDULE

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The twelfth day of the Pride of Detroit's dash around the world found them not far behind their own schedule, but behind the schedule followed by Wells and Evans last year, when they circled their globe in twenty-eight days and fourteen hours, traveling by ship, train and plane. Schlee and Brock hoped to complete their world tour in fifteen days.

While the Pride of Detroit had completed but about two-fifths of its flight from Harbor Grace, Wells and Evans on the twelfth day of their trip passed Verkhneudinsk, Siberia, the geographical half way mark on their route from New York to New York. Wells and Evans were able to travel by train by day and night, while Schlee and Brock have been able to do little flying by night.

REDUCTION IN ARMAMENTS VITAL ISSUE

Japan, Says Delegate, Ardently Desires Ending of Ruinous Competition in Military Budgets

PRESENT SYSTEM OPPOSED TO PEACE

"People Are Living Under Conditions of Armed Peace Which Prevailed Before the War"

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—Assertions that competitive armaments create an atmosphere of war and that reduction of armaments must be doggedly fought for and achieved, were the high points of the addresses at the League of Nations Assembly today.

Japanese delegate Minichiro Adachi said Japan ardently desired that ruinous competition in armaments should be brought to a standstill and lowered to a level strictly essential to national security. He pledged his country's co-operation with the League's preparatory disarmament commission, which, along with other speakers, Erich Lofgren, Foreign Minister of Sweden, insisted it was useless to convolve anew before the great military Powers settled the divergencies of views which had appeared at previous meetings of the Commission.

COUNCIL CRITICIZED

M. Lofgren criticized the Council of the League for its passive attitude on political problems in the last year, alluding, it is believed to the controversy between Italy and Yugoslavia, and showed no terror of the great Powers when he scoured the practice of certain members of the League in discussing burning political questions among themselves.

"This," he said, "has not dissipated the fears of those who believed that enlargement of the Council would increase the danger that important political questions would be withheld from the League and would be transferred to an inner circle of representatives of certain Powers only."

RAI METHODS PERSIST

The old pre-war method of Nations still in vogue and the League of Nations should be a psychological seismograph to foresee and forestall all events which in the past might lead to a world war, Felix Cienfuegos, Minister of Latvia, declared. He warned the Assembly that the military budget of 1926, including naval and air forces, amounted in Europe to one billion and a half dollars, about the same as in 1913, and that the aggregate number of soldiers, more than three million, was only slightly less than the figure for 1913.

He remarked that the technical equipment of armies was far more developed than before the Great War.

"We are living under the conditions of armed peace which prevailed before the war," he said, "and under a system of competitive armaments which we believe will sooner or later land the world into war."

JOURNALISTIC INFLUENCE

The telegraphic dispatches yesterday contained a brief announcement of the death of Mr. Samuel L. Kydd, until last year editor-in-chief of The Gazette, Montreal. To the average reader this merely states the passing of a man who filled an important position on a great public journal. To the Canadian, whether by birth or adoption, who knows his Canada, and who has made himself familiar with the builders of the country, the calling away of Mr. Kydd means another gap in the now only too thin ranks of those great masons who built the structure of Confederation and left to the present and future generations a work to be proud of among the self-governing communities of the Empire.

To the newspaper fraternity, Mr. Kydd's departure is the removal of a lovable figure. Simple and sweet-natured to the novice, he was helpful in advice and guidance; to the more experienced he was a brake on the writer whose tendency was toward florid style, or carelessness in expression. One generation after another of Gazette staffs have passed under his control and tuition, and each person has carried with him when he left The Gazette what is known as The Gazette stamp. Probably no one ever guessed how much Mr. Kydd really knew. He was the confident of all the great public men of his long journalistic career. Never himself appearing on a public platform, the quiet editorial sanctum sanctorum of The Gazette was visited by the men who shone in the limelight, and policies were discussed, public opinions considered, advice and counsel sought and given by that quiet, calm man. He was one of the wonderful minds which moulded the destinies of the country, himself personally buried in obscurity, content that others reap the glory and the applause so long as the material, political or historical benefit accrued to the country to which he was so intensely devoted.

Like Mr. Van Horne and Mr. Shaughnessy in the latter eighties and early nineties in the Canadian Pacific Railway, Mr. Kydd was a moulder of men for the future years. As those two great builders of things picked out office boys, clerks, mechanical apprentices and others who fathered and nursed them for the future of the company, so Mr. Kydd was over-looked by Mr. Kydd. He foresaw possibilities in all, and left on them the sterling hallmark of his own beautiful character. Also, like the premier masons of the wonderful transportation corporation, who trained the youth under them, Mr. Kydd has now scattered through the world men taught and trained by him who look back with affection to The Gazette as their Alma Mater, and to Mr. Kydd as their kindly, but just and strict mentor. No man can ask for greater or more lasting monument.

Mr. Kydd, also like Mr. Van Horne and Mr. Shaughnessy, consistently repudiated the common doctrine that only the past bred great men and built great structures. His conception was to maintain the great traditions of the past, by building in the present for the future. The Gazette, over which he presided for so many years, reflected his beautiful, clear, far-seeing mentality; calm, judicious, prudent, forceful for the right, fair and just and strong. Around him were gathered a galaxy of cultured writers so that the columns of The Gazette were ever a reflection of the best and highest thought in Canada.

It would be unjust to Mr. Kydd to say that his place cannot be filled. Such would be contrary to his settled creed in life. He believed the occasion always produced the man, but nevertheless Mr. Kydd's going will be felt as a great loss.

DISAPPEARING TIMBER SUPPLIES

The question of the future timber supply of the world is a serious enough one to have come before the meeting of the British Association. It has been the subject of a paper read by Professor Fraser Story, the editor of The Empire Forestry Journal, and he predicts a world famine in soft woods as approaching. The vast bulk of the soft wood supply comes from north of the temperate zone and the famine anticipated is due largely to what Professor Story describes as the "ruthless exploitation" of two or three great belts in the United States and the extension of the same policy to Canada. In connection with this Dominion he points out that already three-quarters of this country's merchantable timber has disappeared "under the attacks of lumbermen, settlers, fires and insects." Canada, he says, remains the soft wood storehouse of the Empire, having 547,000,000 of the Empire's total of 575,000,000 acres. Then he continues: "The yearly drain on the Canadian forests is 4,000,000,000 cubic feet, yet only 300,000,000 go into industrial consumption, fires and other destructive agencies accounting for the rest." This rate of depletion he estimates will bring Canada's soft wood supply to an end in twenty-five years.

Professor Story mentions British Columbia's resources and points to how it has been used that these should be re-stocked persistently and scientifically. In concluding his summing up, he says that of the total timber in the world, 27,000,000,000 cubic feet are consumed annually. This is at a rate whereby the virgin coniferous forests of the world "not last longer than thirty-seven years."

PRESENT-DAY GREATNESS

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the President of Columbia University, says that there is not a great man in any country today, and that the world is suffering from an intellectual famine. Sir Oliver Lodge does not agree with the American professor, and quotes the case of two astronomers—Professor Eddington and Dr. Jeans—who, he says, are as great as any men of the past. He also maintains that there are wonderful physicists in the world today, and that science is now at the very top of the wave—"greater than it has ever been." This viewpoint is endorsed by Sir Arthur Keith, the President of the British Association, who goes further and characterizes what Dr. Butler says as "sheer audacity." He asks how can any one man judge? "The world of knowledge is so vast now," he says, "it covers such an enormously wide range, that no one brain can comprehend it all." Sir Arthur sees no death of genius. "The people of the present day cannot discern their geniuses." "In a hundred years' time people will look back on our age," he says, "and pick out our geniuses." This viewpoint is also taken by The London Evening Standard, which says:

"Perhaps a decision one way or another is impossible to us. We can no more appreciate the greatness of a contemporary than we can see the grandeur of a mountain when we are climbing its slopes. The peak seems ever at the end of the next incline, and it is not until we look at it from a distance that we realize how far we were from it. Another difficulty lies in some doubt as to the proper definition of greatness. Is a great man one who does large things? But many little men have been pushed by accident into positions where they could do nothing else. Accident plays so huge a part in human affairs. And who has not met, in some humble position, a man who radiates from him by mere force of being himself the very sense of greatness?"

Under the head of "Thriving Canadian Port," London Engineering is a late issue has the following: "Despite adverse conditions, the port of Vancouver recorded a substantial increase in trade during 1926. Imports increased nearly 93 per cent, and exports 29 per cent, over the corresponding figures for the previous twelve months; imports totalled 4,681,910 tons and exports 3,353,512 tons. It is stated in the annual report of the Vancouver Board of Harbor Commissioners that the most conspicuous feature in the year's business was, perhaps, the record volume of lumber and logs handled for export. Again, the grain trade, despite the fact that world-market conditions were not altogether favorable, showed an increase of 10,000,000 bushels over the total for the year 1925. The new pilchard-oil and fish-meal industry also helped to swell the volume of trade passing through the port, and exports of lead and zinc showed an increase of 12,000 tons. Since 1909, annual arrivals of deep sea ships at Vancouver have increased from 71 to 1,071, and the net tonnage of ocean-going vessels has grown from 195,789 tons to 3,698,066 tons. The total number of vessels of all classes which entered the port during 1926 was 19,767 as compared with 19,026 during 1925."

Commenting on the Federal Government's decision to switch the terminus of the Hudson Bay Railway from Port Nelson to Churchill, The Montreal Gazette says: "If Mr. Palmer is right in advising the abandonment of Port Nelson, and if the Minister of Railways is right in accepting Mr. Palmer's judgment, a very serious and costly blunder has been made in the expenditures at Port Nelson, and that blunder ought to stand as a warning against further precipitate action in proceeding with an undertaking which presents so many and such formidable difficulties and uncertainties. The Minister of Railways presumably has these things in mind, and is desirous of acquiring all the information necessary, but investigation involves delay, and the Western demand for the completion and equipment of the route is clamorously insistent."

At the forthcoming inter-provincial conference at Ottawa, Quebec, as a province, is to raise the question of being a contributor to the old age pension scheme. Quebec has its own statutory provisions for the maintenance of the aged. Under the new Federal law its taxpayers are called upon to provide their share of the Federal appropriation towards those provinces which come in under the old age pension scheme. Quebec will take the stand that non-participating provinces should be relieved from the taxation that will benefit those that participate.

THE WAVELESS PAY

I close my eyes to hold a better sight;
And all my mind is opened on a scene
Of oaks with leaves far yellower than green.
A mist of blue beneath them. To the right,
A low cape fades beyond the sunrise
Of one calm bay down to which pastures lean.
The rounded fields are warm, and in between Them all the gliding gorse is still and bright.

It does not matter what illusion drives
Clouds through the mind or breaks the outer day.
For all I know that distant water strives Against the land. I have it all my way:
Through bodine oaks the steadfast fan survives.
Peace on the fading cape, the waveless bay.
—G. O. in The Irish Statesman.

A WISH

Oh! for some place apart, wherein to weep.
Some old-world arbor, far from city din
With fair trees canopied, a seat within,
Soft grass beneath, with flowers jeweled deep.

Or some grey, ruined chapel where none came;
All of them lovely, names embalmed in rhyme,
Peaceful, out-living here their stormy fate.

Else—some lone margin by a Wintry sea,
Where no bird calls, nor silly life doth creep—
There to lie down and take long draughts of sleep, Wherein no dream of Life nor Death should be.
—Alice Law.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

A writer who assumes to know everything worth knowing under the sun, and more also, declares that this is a mad world and that it is getting madder every day. Surveying the world at large, and lingering over Russia, there appears to be some justification for that interesting "proposition." Undoubtedly a large number of people in the world are in a feverish state, and not a few of them are in a state of cerebral ferment. If some of the people who are attempting long distance flights through the air, lacking proper equipment and having comparatively little experience, are not mad, they must be just a little "touched" in the upper story. Probably they prefer a crowded hour or two of glorious life to living like vegetables for a hundred years.

The sensational stunt which made Lindbergh famous and affluent has set them all stunting in the hope that with a little luck they may become famous and affluent. Few of them were equipped like Lindbergh for their jobs and fewer of them had Lindbergh's luck. Most of them have "disappeared without trace." They have been greatly daring and have lost all.

It is still a fact that everybody must begin at the beginning and learn to creep before they try to walk. And even the birds whose natural element is the air have to practice a little and gain experience before they essay long flights. The swallows which are on their way to Southern climes have been more than a month in training for that stunt, and many of them will fail in their flight and fall by the wayside.

The people who do stunts in the air perform at their own peril. Their performances are seldom dangerous to the lives of other people. Their madness is not a menace to communities. We have already dealt exhaustively with modern madness in another form. We had not intended to write anything more about the necessity for arresting the feverish motor car driver and doing something to him that would reduce his blood to a normal temperature, but a reader of this column has sent us a clipping from The Toronto Star, indicating what the authorities of the Ontario capital are doing to make the streets and the highways as safe as possible for all who use them.

The Star says:
According to Magistrate R. J. Browne, the campaign against crazy motoring in Toronto is producing results. When a licence is canceled by the magistrate it stays canceled for the period set. There is no using of the same car by other members of the family during the interdiction period.

"I have canceled licences for a month, for three months, for six months, for two years and some of them forever," said the magistrate to The Star in discussing the madman policy of motorist.

Magistrate Browne estimates that during this year he has canceled about 200 motor car licences.

"And what happens when you declare the licence canceled?" he was asked.

"The police take the licence plates off the car and bring them in to headquarters," he said. "The Provincial issuer of licences is notified of the action taken, so that no new licence is issued during the period of cancellation."

"What about a man who loses his licence and wants to sell his car?" "Well, he must convince the court that it is a bona fide sale," was the reply. "No transfers to other members of the same family. The car is tied up while the cancellation lasts unless the man can show that the sale is an honest one."

As an instance of the drastic manner in which the cancellation penalty has been handed out of late, the magistrate looked over the police court calendar for Monday and found that he had canceled ten licences in that one day. He had presided over the morning court, the afternoon one and the traffic court. This was the penalty list for the day:

Three motorists got jail for ten days.

Three got a $50 fine with costs.

Two got a $30 fine with costs.
And all these and two more lost their licences for three months each. That's a pretty fair day's work.

"In proportion to its population," said the magistrate, "I believe Toronto has fewer motor mishaps than any other city in America."

Results are important, and they appear to be getting results in Toronto without resorting to such drastic measures as strapping offenders. We have no desire to see the driver of a motor car, whatever his state of mind, abused or abused in his person. We have a deep desire to convince the motor car driver that he cannot be permitted to abuse his motor car and endanger life and property by testing the speed of his car to the utmost upon the public highways. Apparently that desire cannot be gained by summoning and fining the offender. If the persistent offender were not permitted to drive at all for a stated period, or had his licence canceled permanently if he persistently offended, the effect might be salutary. There may be some motorists who would be quite willing to pay a few dollars for the privilege of indulging in a brief orgy of auto-intoxication. There are very few motorists who would consider life worth living if they were not a motor car in it.

A VICTORIAN IN ENGLAND

Sir,—I have just returned from a fortnight's tour of Devon, making my headquarters at Exeter. Seeing an article on "The Story of Hon. E. Dewdney" published in your paper, and desiring to know if the hon. gentleman was really born in Exeter, although a native of Devonshire, I called at the Births, Deaths and Marriages Office, where the official informed me that their records started three years after Mr. Dewdney's birth, then went to the Exeter Museum and interviewed the curator, who kindly showed me a huge case of British Columbia. Mr. Dewdney's large-sized portrait in the Guernsey national suit inside and on the case it stated "A native of Devon."

Exeter, with its 60,000 population, is crowded during the tourist season with thousands of visitors from all parts to view its cathedral and motor to all the beautiful resorts adjoining. The Devon General Omnibus & Charabanc Company runs no less than 150 vehicles, crowded with sight-seers. We visited Torquay, Dawlish, Teignmouth, Newton Abney and Exmouth. There is no doubt that Devon is the beauty spot of England, with its hills and valleys clothed in magnificent trees and green fields filled with cattle and sheep, there being large areas of kitchen gardens. I was disappointed with the quality of fruit, which was small in comparison to the growth of ours. The people are most kind and hospitable. Devon prides itself in its cider and thick cream.

After a stay in London, with its bustle and noise of motor buses, we were glad to return to our headquarters here at St. Anne-on-Sea, where we purpose to continue our sight-seeing per motor till we leave on our return for Victoria per S.S. Alberic on September 9.

This has indeed been a very wet Summer, as there have been terrible floods all over. In London from August 5 to 18 there was not a dry day. Last night a terrible thunderstorm passed over here. They are extending the tourist season till October 31 to try and make up for losses through bad weather. However, Blackpool, adjoining this seaside place, has been packed with visitors here at St. Anne-on-Sea, where we have been having our holidays. To a visitor all seems prosperous in this country, as the people all look so happy and contented. In fact, I am led to believe that trade is on the mend. Sixty to seventy-five per cent of the motor trade in England is now on the hire purchase system. A buyer may pay a first instalment (which is really the same as a deposit) on a car and bring it back in a month saying that he finds he cannot continue the payments.

Reports from nurserymen all over the country state that the gladioli have made such strides in public favor during the past year or two that within the next few years it will outclass every other flower as far as numbers grown in ordinary gardens are concerned.

LAKE DANGERS

Sir,—I am writing in the interests of Lake Shalvigan, but what applies to that lake applies to other lakes in British Columbia. The evil that exists in the lakes is one that the Federal Government should prevent the sacrifice of valuable lives and loss to property by damage to boats, etc. At this season of the year, when the water in the lakes is at its lowest mark, great danger to boating parties exists from numerous sunken rocks which are found scattered about the lake and these rocks are only covered by a few inches of water in many places. These sunken rocks are marked by a floating buoy or post of some kind to denote their presence, as strangers to the lake are not familiar with the position of them and in one or two instances this has been done by thoughtful residents on the lake. The other existing evil and disappearance of life in the lakes is fallen decayed trees which run out many feet under the water and thereby cause much danger to boating parties. The expenditure to remedy both of these evils would be small and probably be the means of saving some valuable lives in days to come, not to mention damage to boats, etc. I appeal to the lake authorities to remedy these dangers.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Following the announcement made by Sir Arthur Keith, that the British Association for the Advancement of Science intended to acquire the home of Charles Darwin, at Bromley, Kent, Dr. Buckton Browne telegraphed offering to buy the home for the nation. The association has accepted the offer.

Admiral De Horsey's Visit to the Mainland—It is said that Admiral De Horsey will visit Victoria just before his return to Victoria. He will remain absent about one week.

FOREST DEPLETION

Sir,—To prove that I have been only too conservative in my warnings to the Government as to the depletion of the forest resources of British Columbia, it is only necessary to refer to the fact that, an inventory of the forest resources of British Columbia has recently been completed which reveals that, outside of five or six of the large private holdings, the fir timber will be exhausted within five years. It shows only three and a half billion feet of available spruce, which is less than one year's supply for all Canada, and twenty years' supply of hemlock and cedar; that is, of course, provided it is not destroyed by fire sooner, and as British Columbia lost one million seven hundred and fifty thousand acres by fire last year alone, this is something that will quite likely happen.

This being the situation in what has been called Canada's last great timber reserve, you can readily understand the situation must be in the older settled portion of the country, which has been burned and exploited for more than a century. This, too, is borne out by the appointment recently experienced in the Manitoba forest survey, which shows that only a small percentage of the land is now wooded, and some others that I might name, all go to prove that my statements in regard to our wood supply have, I said before, been only too conservative.

Our annual exports of raw pulpwood have increased to 1,700,000 cords, the cut of our mills, with the completion of all the new paper machines now under construction will amount to more than 3,000,000 cords, and the cut of pulpwood alone 6,700,000 cords, to which must be added the amount cut for lumber, railway ties, telegraph and telephone poles, laths, shingles, fence posts and all other purposes which amount to over 15,000,000 cords, or a total cut of 21,700,000 cords annually, and these figures are all taken from Government statistics. Now, if we only allow that four and one-half cords are destroyed by insects, fungi and fire for each cord utilized, also according to Government statistics, and which our past history proves is over-conservative, and then take the Government figures for the amount of our remaining stand and divide that figure by the amount of this depletion, you will then be in a position to judge whether I am right or wrong in making the statement that we have in Canada less than ten years' wood supply remaining.

The mere fact that American interests are now anxious to transport pulpwood from so great a distance as from Newfoundland to their mills in the United States and Canada ought to be sufficient in itself to convince the most skeptical of the seriousness of the impending wood shortage and should be ample warning to anyone.

DOGWOOD (Chamaejas)

Look! The dogwood blooms! Ah! Springtime, see Tears from my petals are falling for the birds in hurried flight—
Lone I swing in the September night.
Hark! though no bird sings on scented breeze,
Nor Spring's music whispers through the trees,
Hark! though thy abode was a garden bower,
Alone do I greet the morning shower.
The pearls dew shed my blossoms white,
Softly I shed them 'mid the velvet night.

AT THE PARTING OF THE WAYS

We come to where the ways divide,
And stand, with heart bowed down,
saying:
For young or old, each in his turn,
Meet at this spot, his lesson learn.
Forget the path by which we came!
See! here there is a bush aflame!
'Tis holy ground and we must strive
To keep that burning flame alive.
Dread trials we have safely passed,
And scaled the hills that lead at last
To this the parting of the ways.
The ways to ill or happier days.

So, in maturer years, we stand
Upon a summit; and the land
Before us speaks of comfort or
Yet harder travail than before.
And must choose betwixt these twain.
For rest or work, for loss or gain.
The one road leads, as we can see,
To Love and Peace eternally.
But, ah! that road is strewn with thorns.
No roses its sheer cliffs adorn;
And yet, we know, and feel and see,
It leads to Home—eventually.

The other choice seems fair to view
And winds more pleasant country through;
But in our inmost hearts, we know
The downward pathway leads to woe.
This is the parting of the ways:
A life of ease or one of praise
And patient striving; win or lose,
It is our privilege to choose.
Forget the paths by which we came!
With will renewed the path reclaim!
Hasten for yourself, your path surveys.
When at the parting of the ways,
—Kilbee Gordon.

ASPIRATION

Sometimes, from out of the passing train of days, a perfect day comes by with purple splendours in its distant haze and glory in its sky. Then, ah! that every day could be as fair as that transcendent one with hope and healing in its fragrance and courage in its sun! Sometimes, in life's long course, a perfect hour dawns on the captured sense, and then all countless rare enchantments flower of peace and innocence. How blessed, how good, if mortals could but clasp that hour and bid it stay, if they could hold within their happy grasp its joy through day on day! But sun and shadow, bloom and blight, must be and in man's soul alone can linger the matchless harmony he knew in hours long flown.

I-ON-A-CO—the Magnetic Health Belt—Has Brought Relief to Many in Victoria

TESTIMONIALS from people who live at a distance are never so convincing as those from people who live in your own community. That is why we are always glad to refer you to Victoria residents who have tried the I-ON-A-CO Belt and found that it has helped them tremendously. Perhaps you know some of these people.

My father-in-law suffered from neuritis for two or three years. From the very first day he used the belt he has had no recurrence of his trouble.

WAR SERVICES HASTEN DEATH

Mr. John M. Milligan Dies
Following Two Operations at the Cranbrook
Hospital

FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

The funeral of the late Mr. John M. Milligan, late of 745 Newport Avenue, will take place tomorrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at Ross Bay Cemetery. The late Mr. Milligan was a native son of Victoria, and served overseas in the late war. There is no doubt that his early death was directly due to the undermining of his constitution while he was a prisoner in Germany over a long term preceding the armistice. Educated in the schools of this city, he was a pupil of Gen. Sir Arthur Currie when the latter was a teacher in the Boys' Central School here. Later he was destined to serve with Sir Arthur at the front.

Leaving school, Mr. Milligan took up the study of surveying and engineering and passed his examination as a British Columbia land surveyor. He followed this up by becoming a member of the engineering firm of Gray & Milligan. For some years he followed his profession, his activities being largely in the northern part of the province.

On the outbreak of war he enlisted for service overseas and left here in January, 1915. He arrived in England just in time to become attached to the First Contingent, under Sir Arthur Currie, and in the second Battle of Ypres was taken prisoner, remaining in confinement in Germany until the end of hostilities.

Returning from overseas, Mr. Milligan followed mining for much of the time until he was taken ill. For some time he was superintending at the Dolly Varden Mine at Alice Arm, under Major North.

Following that position, he was streeted with the Dolly Mines, near Smithers, in charge of Maj.
Angus Davis. Later he was connected with the mining operations of Mrs. A. B. Triggs, also in association with Major Davis.

His next mining work was in the vicinity of Cranbrook, where, about two months ago, he was taken ill and had to go to the Cranbrook Hospital, where he underwent two major operations.

From this illness he recovered sufficiently to return to Victoria. A relapse made it necessary to enter the Royal Jubilee Hospital, where he passed away on Tuesday.

Mr. Milligan was a general favorite among his wide circle of acquaintances. His untimely death will be deeply mourned by many.
He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Helen Bus, of this city, and next by three small children. His father and mother also survive him, being residents of this city. Two sisters, Mrs. Thurst and Miss Winnifred Milligan, and a brother, Mr.
Charles Milligan, are residents of Victoria. Two brothers Messrs.
George B. Milligan and Alexander Milligan, people among those who paid the supreme sacrifice overseas
during the war.

DEAN BANQUETED BY MEN'S GUILD

Very Rev. C. S. Quainon, Dean of Columbia, Gives Religious Impressions of England

Over 100 attended the banquet
given last night in the Memorial Hall in honor of Very Rev. C. S. Quainon, Dean of Columbia, who has just returned from a three months' visit to the Old Land. The banquet represented all the city parishes. Esquimalt, Netchosin, Sidney, Royal Oak and other places. Following the banquet many more attended the banquet given by Dean Quainon on his impressions of England.

Mr. W. J. Alder, president of the Men's Guild, was chairman and delivered a cordial welcome to the Dean on his return. In the course of his remarks he said that the organization of the Men's Guild was a "man's man." They recognized what he had done in the formation of the Men's Guild with the two simple rules, "fellowship and service." Mr. Alder conveyed a message from the Bishop of Columbia in which the Bishop regretted his inability to attend the banquet on account of his being present at the general synod meeting in the East. The Bishop appreciated what the Dean had done in forming the Men's Guild and expressed the hope that other parishes would form similar organizations.

Dean Quainon in his lecture referred to conditions of the Church in England stating that he was confined himself to the religious conditions because on Monday evening he would address a public gathering on the political and social conditions in the Old Land, together with other impressions of his recent visit.

There were three things that impressed him more than anything else in connection with religious conditions. One was the shortage of clergy, another the revision of the prayer book, and the third the growth of the spirit of democracy in the church.

The Dean will give a lecture on his impressions of England, political and social, in the Memorial Hall at 8 o'clock Monday night.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

CHOOSE YOUR OWN DIET Much effort has been spent in researching in order to determine just who are the healthiest people in the world. One phase of this investigation has been to ascertain what the longest-lived people are,
and why. Every so often some scientist thinks he has settled the subject, only to be disproved by some other investigator with a new set of facts and conclusions. One of the beliefs held a few years ago was that the Bulgarians were the longest-lived people, either because they drank buttermilk or, as some believed, because they ate so much garlic. However, you will find statistics to show that some of the oldest people now living have been all their lives in England and have never eaten garlic or drunk buttermilk, but have lived mostly on roast beef and cabbage. The Hindu, religiously opposed to the use of flesh foods, often reaches a great age living on rice and fruit. Likewise, the Scandinavian with his coarse bread the French and Italian with their mixture of dishes, the Germans living on heavy dishes, and even the South Sea cannibals, all enjoy about the same degree of health and all have plenty of old folks among them.

The great secret is that man's body is organic and can therefore adapt itself to its nutritional opportunities. The oldest people in the country are those who have lived in one place a long time and practised the same habits day after day until their bodies adapted themselves to their habits of eating, exercising, working and recreation.

In the countries of the Old World you will find that the people living in the ages of 120 and 130 years have descended from a long line of ancestors who have always lived with the same habits; therefore, a perfect adaptation to the food of that tribe has taken place, where the same kind of food used by one unaccustomed to it would constitute almost a starvation diet.

We in America are such a racial mixture and at the same time have such a selection of foods to choose from that it is most necessary to study our food problems carefully.
If we are to expect the most satisfactory results, while the rest of the world's people are forced to use a limited variety of foodstuffs, we have but to phone the butcher or grocer, and in a few minutes we can have delivered to our door foods which come from every country on the face of the earth. Is it any wonder that we have such food battles going on in the stores, when we consider how many different types and kinds of food are used at the same time? I do not see any hope of our people ever being able to adapt themselves to these "international" mixtures. We must learn to select the different kinds of food of the best quality, and study how to combine them in simple ways.
In this manner it will be possible to create a new American plan of dieting, which will take advantage of our opportunities for selection of the most efficient and healthful diet.

Do not concern yourself too much about the food, religion, or social customs of the Hindu or the Eskimo.
You should be kept very busy studying your own problems, and then after you have reached perfection you can take the time left in reforming and changing the habits of the rest of mankind.

Answer—Start at once to use the proper methods to overcome your complished through regulating her diet, keeping her bowels open, and seeing that she does not play games that are too exciting. Do not scold her because of her difficulty, but engage some kindergarten teacher

her in playing games with blocks.
Do not try to teach her yourself,

MOTORISTS SEEK NEWER METHODS

Curtis Point Camp Will Have to Be Modernized to Meet Changing Motor Tour Conditions

SANITARY SERVICE HERE INADEQUATE

The demand of the touring public is for camps that have cabins instead of the old system of supplying the facilities for the erection of tents for the night. This fact was stressed at the luncheon meeting of the Publicity Bureau yesterday at noon. The information was common to all the returned representatives of the bureau who have been located in different parts of the United States during the summer months and who reported upon conditions before the members of the board.

They all stated that in the different camps the demand was for the cabin system. Tourists, it was stated, would rather pay an extra charge than be obliged to put up with the inconveniences of pitching tents upon arrival in the camps.

The situation may have some effect upon the local camp if it is decided to continue it. The lease under which the camp is now held expires before the opening of the next tourist season, and it will remain a matter of policy as to what shall be done in the matter before then.

Incidentally, it was mentioned at the meeting that there was the possibility that there might be an attempt made to establish a cabin camp on property behind the Scott Building on Douglas Street.

THE REPRESENTATIVES

The main interest connected with the meeting were the reports from the representatives of the bureau who had been stationed out of the province during the summer. They were: Mr. J. H. Findler, who was at Spokane; Mr. J. H. Findler, who was at Seattle; Mr. David Croston, who was at Portland; and Mr. H. Turner, who was at Olympia.

Mr. Hollingsworth said Spokane formed a sort of key point. The arrivals from various resorts centered at Spokane before proceeding. The very bad condition of the road of Omaha during the season worked against the business this year, and in addition to this the late season was also a matter that militated against the number of tourists. The bad roads had a very ill effect upon travel from the Yellow Stone Park.

Spokane estimated that the travel had been about twelve per cent less this season, but it was remarked that the tourists that came were of a better class. With respect to this matter of the roads, there was the possibility that before another year this defect would in part at least be overcome.

The reports received by him from all the tourists was most flattering with respect to Victoria. All the travelers spoke in high terms of everything about the city with the exception of the rivalry shown by the sightseeing men. The police were praised, and also the management of the camp. Mr. Joshua Green had called at Spokane on his way back from Yellowstone, and he remarked upon the excellent work done by Mr. George I. Warren. Everywhere Mr. Green went he said the city of Victoria was advertised.

Mr. Hollingsworth spoke well of the courtesy shown him by the various officials whom he met during the summer. All of them gave their heartiest co-operation in the carrying out of the duties of his office.

CABIN PLAN IN PORTLAND

Mr. David Croston said he found that the cabin camp was the one that found favor at the present time. In Portland, where he was located, it had been decided in fact to close the city camp which was not provided with cabins. The camps that adopted the latter plan were full every night.

He told of a little trouble that he had had with the Portland city camp at the opening of the season when, under various excuses, it was made plain to him that it was not desired that he should distribute his literature there.

All the other camps were exceedingly favorable to the operations of the bureau and gave him every assistance.

He was of the opinion that it would be of advantage if the young women employed for the various camps could be shown the attractions of Victoria, as it would afford the opportunity for them to speak of what they actually saw. This visit had been promised them by Capt. Oliver, and it would be beneficial he felt.

SEATTLE HELPFUL

Mr. Findler, of the Seattle agency had the same report to present with respect to the operation of the cabin camps as compared with the older form of stopping place. He said that he had seen a great lot of literature for the distribution of literature and had in addition to the visits to the different camps in the district, also for the operation of the transportation companies to Honolulu, California, and many other points under the direction of the bureau.

The C.P.R. had been very kind in connection with the distribution of literature.

The general opinion had been that the class of travel had improved wonderfully during the season. There was more auto-tourism than in former years.

He said that he had been able to get a number to pay a visit to the city for a day only when he could not persuade them to spend longer. This had had its effect and these people in many instances told him they would return another year and make a longer stay.

The visitors to the city spoke in high terms of the courtesy of Mr. W. H. Hadley at the camp, of the Customs officials generally, and of the city and of the others.

The only knock was on the sanitary arrangements of the tourist camp. It was felt that there should be a more modern system than is now in use.

He had found great benefits from the lectures given by himself.

CANADIAN COMMISSION

Mr. Turner said that Olympia had more travel than in other seasons. In this district the cabin camp was the more popular, and there were never enough cabins to meet the demands.

He had heard complaints from those who had been in Vancouver Island, that the direct route on the road between Nanaimo and Victoria were not definite enough. The sanitary arrangements at the city camp were objected to, he said, as not being up to date.

He had had the most hearty co-operation of the hotels and all the agencies that he had visited in the pushing of the publicity for the city.

Mr. R. H. B. Kerr, the president of the Chamber of Commerce, said that he had turned agents for the excellent work that they had done.

COMPETITION TOO SEVERE

Mr. C. P. Hill, speaking for the Tourist Trade Group of the Chamber of Commerce, said that every attempt was being made to counteract the ill effects of the sightseeing competition which was carried to such an extent that it became a subject of complaint by the tourists.

It was decided to allow the Chamber of Commerce to deal with this aspect of the situation as the better body to handle it. At the same time the suggestion was made that the city might desire to take radical heroic methods in grappling with the matter if those concerned did not adopt rational means of soliciting business.

Mr. Warren spoke of the fact that there were other attractions, such as Harrison Lake, Grouse Mountain, Reiner Park and Mount Baker Park, where advantage was taken of having the young women employed in the various bureaus which distributed literature, acquainted with the advantages of the points referred to by being taken on trips to the different places. The authorities figured for the season to Vancouver Island would, he said, show an increase according to the Customs.

It was of the opinion that this was most gratifying in view of the fact that for different reasons the past season had been generally a poorer one than last.

He was of the opinion that the northern California and southern Oregon were gaining by the publicity work that was being done by the bureau, and there was every reason for believing that these sections of the coast should aid in the publicity work that was being carried on. This might be dealt with at the meeting of the city organizations concerned in the scheme of advertising being carried out.

Unveiling Ceremony—The unveiling of the Equilateral War Memorial, at Memorial Park, will take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Lieutenant-Governor Robert Randolph Bruce will officiate.

Tax Sale Land—The Oak Bay Municipality will put up a block of sixty-six parcels of land at its tax sale, which opens this morning at 10 o'clock at the Municipal Hall. This is a decrease over last year. The number of parcels put up for sale last year totalled eighty-six.

Appeal Dismissed—The appeal of Bert Warren against a sentence of one month's imprisonment, imposed in the City Police court after conviction on a charge of assault following an altercation, was dismissed by Judge Lammiman in the County Court yesterday. City Engineer L. Harrison appeared for the Crown and Mr. W. A. Brethour for the appellant.

Assessment Made—Inspector of Municipalities Robert Baird announced yesterday that assessment figures for 1926 in British Columbia show practically no change in land values, but a marked increase in improvements. The increase in valuation of improvements was $2,000,000. Arrears in taxes and investments of the municipalities in tax sale lands have again been reduced.

To Protect Street Car Passengers—The establishment of street car passengers for prospective street car passengers is likely to be introduced shortly. Members of the Police Commission and the B.C. Electric Railway officials are conferring on the subject. Two trial zones are expected to be recommended to the City Council, at the junction of Douglas and Yates Streets, and of Douglas and Fort Streets.

RAILWAY CRISIS IS DUE TO EXTREMISTS

Australian Premier Says Parliament Will Seek to Limit Extension of Disputes Next Session

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 7.—The Queensland railway crisis was caused by a comparatively few extremists seeking to destroy the work of the majority, in the opinion of S. M. Bruce, Premier of the Commonwealth. Speaking at the Constitutional Club today he said they were mostly farmers fastening on Australian workers.

The Australian States, he said, should recognize equally with the Commonwealth that Australia did not require foreign extremists, adding emphatically:

"If I had my way I would throw them out of Australia. He asserted that the position had been reached in Queensland where it was possible that the industry of all Australia might be paralyzed."

In the course of the forthcoming session," he said, "the Federal Parliament will be asked to consider a measure of preventing the extension of disputes beyond the bounds of the industry in which it began."

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7.—Foreign observers from Nanjing report 8,000 cases of cholera there and say the epidemic is increasing. Physicians and hospitals are unavailable and hundreds are dying in the streets and fields. The Chinese Red Cross is making desperate efforts to relieve the sick and bury the dead.

City Hall Activities in Brief

The industrial committee of the City Council met Mon. F. A. Pauline, British Columbia agent general in London, at an informal meeting yesterday morning. Mr. Pauline reported to the committee the results of his investigation into the worst mill project, which Mr. John More, of Bradford, has interested himself in. He also told the committee that he had directed the committee to bring to motion picture producers who might be interested in Victoria's studio project.

The firm of G. D. Howe & Company will shortly start its inspection of the plans and specifications of the grain elevator for the Panama Pacific Grain Terminals Ltd., it was learned at the City Hall yesterday. McNeill & Company, engineers for the elevator, have the plans in readiness so that there will be no delay.

Pilot Officer W. D. VanVleet, commanding No. 1 Operations Squadron, at the B.C. Air Station, from the City Hall yesterday. The proposed airport site by Zoning Engineer Doughty Davies yesterday. If this airport meets with the approval of the Department of National Defence the city will then be asked to set it aside for airport purposes.

The nearest equivalent which has yet been erected in Victoria to the admirable sort of houses which are found in so many American college towns has just been opened by Mrs. Every-Clayton at the beautiful Old Priory house, 729 Pemberton Road.

One of the finest old residences of the city, the house has an air of substantial dignity and solidity. The one first sees it on pushing open the gate. This feeling is endorsed on entering the ample hall. Simply and elegantly furnished, the place is ideal for the purposes of a girl student's residence. It is a big, home-like house, with large reception-rooms, numerous bedrooms, spacious surrounding grounds, and a beautiful position commanding a fine view of the city, the straits and the Olympic mountains. The roominess of the house and grounds alike will instantly appeal to healthy and active young people. Within five minutes' walk of Victoria College, and ten minutes from the High School, its position could not be improved upon from the students' standpoint. Mrs. Clayton's intention is to fill the place with girl students, but in addition to these regular residents, for twenty-five of whom there is accommodation, she intends to throw open the privileges of the dining-room to the students of the city who may wish to take advantage of these. The whole idea is to provide girls with the freedom, privileges and discipline of a well-regulated home.

The downstairs part of the house contains the reception-rooms, kitchen, etc. All the bedrooms are upstairs, with beautiful views from all the windows. The big reception-hall and sitting-room have built-in walls, wicker furniture and staid, Indian matting in rich colors on the floors; opening off the hall at right angles to the sitting-room is a beautiful long recreation room which is to be used for the informal early dances and other entertainments which will be arranged from time to time. A few really handsome antique chairs with pretty chintz coverings, and some choice engravings and water colors, are the sole furnishings here. The dining-room is also very simply furnished, with a round table, the butternut and big kitchen open directly off the dining-room, and on the other side of the corridor are Mrs. Clayton's bedrooms.

The seven bedrooms upstairs are large and roomy, with such abundant cupboard space that they lend themselves well to dormitory use. Some rooms have three to four beds. Students who wish to can have separate rooms to themselves, but of course this means paying more.

Although the house is steam heated throughout, all the reception-rooms, dining-room, etc., and practically all the upstairs bedrooms have fireplaces. There are two bathrooms upstairs, and downstairs a big laundry for the girls' use is quite an asset to the establishment.

Mrs. Clayton is a trained nurse and has had years of experience as matron in schools in Canada and in the Old Land. Warmth, light, feeding and comfortable beds, she says, are the first essentials to a student's comfort. And she is undertaking to provide these. She herself personally supervises the cooking.

Los Angeles, Cal., "Sept. 1, 1927.

"Dear Sir: As I agreed to give you my opinion of the people with whom I came in contact in Victoria regarding your real estate, I wish to tell you that each and every one that I met and talked with was a very good book-keeper. They all mentioned that they thought property was away too cheap; and, in fact, two of them were buying real estate, and one gentleman, of whom I cannot recall the name, and with whom I played golf at the Victoria Golf Club, said that he was picking up the property he could handle at this time, as he considered value very cheap, and in traveling in other cities he would find that Victoria would come some day. I was quite surprised myself at some of the things that he showed me in a very high-class residential district at $800 each.

"I am quite sure, however, that you will find that the general run of people all speak a good word for your very pretty city. In fact, I am quite taken with it myself.

"Very truly yours,

NEWS OF THE BUILDERS

To fill a demand which has often been encountered for a compact bungalow to be acquired at a moderate price, the City Brokerage has commenced the construction on a quiet street in Oak Bay of some bungalows of four rooms, with a good sized dining alcove in place of a dining-room, a commodious living-room, a fireplace, two bedrooms and a Dutch kitchen. Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A Remarkable Case

LEA DELOME
ST. ADOLPHE, MANITOBA

St. Adolphe, Manitoba. — "I was very weak and had great pains during my periods so that I could not sweep the floor. The pains were in the right side and extended to the left and then downwards. It seemed as if the body was heavy and upside down. It is for these troubles I took the Vegetable Compound. I saw about it in a paper and one woman prevailed on me to take it. It has helped me in every way, the pains are gone, and I have more appetite. It is a pleasure to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to other women."

Found Great Relief

Toronto, Ont. — "I am at the change of life with hot flashes, dizziness, weakness and nervousness. I had head noises and was short of breath. I was this way about six months when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers. I have taken eight bottles so far and found great relief." —Mrs. R. J. Salmon, 112 Lawlor Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Mrs. Carr Also Helped

Muncie, Indiana. — "I had inflammation and the doctor said I was in a very bad condition. My hips and back felt like knives cutting me. I suffered terribly and could not get around to do my work. I had indigestion and very bad headaches and could not sleep. I was so nervous. I took local treatments and they did me no good. I had always heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and I thought it would be like all the others, but I found out after I took half a bottle as I have proved it wonderful. I am taking it yet and I can do all my work. I am feeling fine now, and it is your good medicine that has done it. I tell every woman of the good I get from taking the Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and from using the Sanative Wash. I don't intend to be without them." —Mrs. P. W. Carr, 726 West Jackson Street, Muncie, Indiana.

Such letters prove the great merit of the Vegetable Compound. These women know by experience the benefit they have received. Their letters show a sincere desire to help other women suffering from like ailments.

Plows, Graham Street, was the bride. She was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. James Plows, and a lovely gown of ivory white tulle, fashioned with a long light bodice and bouffant skirt, which was trimmed with shirred tulle and seed pearls. Her embroidered net veil was arranged in pretty coronet effect, with a double band of orange blossoms across the forehead. She carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses, and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls.

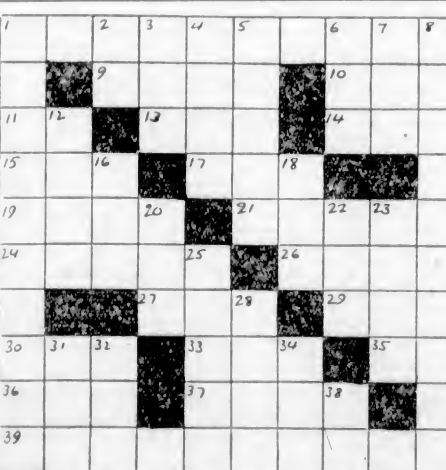

Miss Minnie Williamson, as bridesmaid, wore a charming frock of gold and blue shot tulle, trimmed with tulle flowers of blue and gold. Her picture hat being blue tulle, veiled with soft ecru net and trimmed with French flowers in pastel shades. Her bouquet was of yellow chrysanthemums and larkspur.

Little Miss Irma Dakers was a dainty flower girl in a frock of pale green crepe de Chine with a band of brilliant in her hair, and she carried a basket of pink sweet peas and carnations.

Mr. Arthur Saunders, of Ocean Falls, was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Robert Crawford and Mr. Jack McCredie.

During the signing of the register, Miss A. Babbington sang very sweetly, "O Perfect Love." The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a profusion of lovely flowers, the artistic arrangements being the work of the Pas-a-Pas Bible Class. Two arches spanned the aisles, and during the ceremony the bride and groom stood beneath the King's Daughters' hold its monthly meeting in the Rest Rooms on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

LEGGETT—JOBSON

The wedding took place on September 4 at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, Rev. Canon Stocken officiating. Miss Muriel Bell Jobson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Jobson, Seymour Avenue, to Mr. Herbert William Leggett, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leggett, Vincent Avenue.

BILLOCK—THOMAS

The marriage was solemnized on Saturday evening at Christ Church Cathedral, Rev. P. H. Patt officiating. Miss Caroline Louise Thomas, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Thomas, 338 Sincere Street, to Mr. Percy Drummond Billock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billock, of Victoria.

The service was fully choral, with the choir in attendance. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of soft white lace with the conventional veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of roses, sweet peas and white heather. She was attended by Miss Wise as maid of honor, wearing a rosewood crepe de Chine frock and hat to match her bouquet, being of gladioli. The Misses Amelia Louise Thomas, a niece of the bride, and Amelia Harris wore frocks of mauve and green georgette, respectively, and were dainty flower girls. Their flowers were pale pink carnations. Mr. R. Beaumont was best man, and the ushers were Mr. V. Patt and Mr. R. Cruikshank. During the service two hymns were sung. Mr. Harold Davis at the organ.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the young couple were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Billock.

After a honeymoon spent at Banff and Lake Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Billock will reside on Chapman Street. For travelling the bride wore a frock of pale blue georgette, with a smart green coat and hat of the same shade.

Many of the many handsome gifts was a silver tea and coffee service from the bride's associates at the Marine and Fisheries department, C.P.R., where the groom has been employed for many years.

EVANS—CROUCH

The wedding was solemnized at St. Barnabas' Church on Tuesday, August 30, of Miss Margaret Delevigne, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Crouch, of Victoria, to Mr. William Ernest Evans, of Toronto. Rev. N. E. Smith officiated at the service. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a dress of white georgette fashioned on simple lines, with deep silver lace insertions on the skirt and neck and in the puffed sleeves. She wore a white picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and maidenhair fern, with a spray of orange blossom at the waist. Attending the bride were Miss Jessie Brown, wearing a frock of mauve georgette trimmed with satin ruffles and sequins, and Miss Lillian Yates, who wore gold embroidered silk net over pink crepe de Chine. The bridesmaids wore

Women's Clubs And Societies

Reports Read

Reports received at the monthly meeting of the Aged and Infirm Women's Home committee held at the Home on Tuesday afternoon showed that the house was filled to capacity, sixty-five inmates being in residence there. With few exceptions all of these are enjoying a fair measure of health. The president, Mrs. J. May, presided at the meeting; eight lady members of the committee being present. An Old-maid's furnace has recently been installed at the Home, and it is hoped that it may prove satisfactory and give comfortable warmth during the winter months. The visiting committee for September includes Mrs. Clay, convener, and Mrs. Wm. Grant and Mrs. Gould. Donations received for the month of August were from the following: Mrs. Shotbolt, lettuce; Mrs. Grant, vegetable marrow; Mrs. Kemp and Mrs. Jackson, magazines; Hibben-Bone Co., papers; Mrs. Jones, Mr. Hughes, Mrs. Gould and Mrs. Grant, flowers.

Native Daughters' Meeting

An executive meeting of the Native Daughters of B.C. was held on Tuesday evening at the home of the chief factor, Mrs. H. A. Beckwith, when plans for the forthcoming year were discussed. There will be a meeting on Tuesday at the Victoria Club.

W.A. of St. Joseph's Hospital

The regular monthly business meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital will be held on Friday at 3 p.m. in the nurses' recreation room.

St. Barnabas' Guild

The Guild of St. Barnabas Church will not meet as usual tomorrow, but will resume its activities for the winter on Thursday, September 22, in the church room.

New Accessories

Many of the accessories to dress—bags, scarves, shawls and hostery—have a good deal that is new about them, says an article in The London Times.

As the best bags are English there is no need to buy foreign ones. The new bag will be found to meet changing tastes and are at the same time practical, since pockets are absent from frocks and are not meant to be used on coats. Even the pockets that are made on certain special sports clothes need not be used if waterproof-lined bags are carried. These are brown and blue, and are bound and mounted in leather to match. There are other new tweed bags, not proofed and made on large imitation shell frames, of all the warm-looking tweeds, and it is easy to match a bag with tweed coats or suits. They are usually made on a yoke an inch or so from the frame.

For the seaside there are large waterproof-lined bags of proofed velvet in brilliant colors which are intended to hold bathing costumes. They have "zip" fastenings and the necessary mirrors and pockets. Every holiday need has now been seen to by the bagmakers.

A new bag for town looks rather like an envelope and is high rather than wide. But there are many shapes to choose from. Some envelopes are of calf and cross-grain morocco in two colors which will go with autumn clothes. The bright color is in the cross-grain at the top of the bag and the darker is in the calf. The same leathers are also used diagonally. Where there is no handle to a bag there is sometimes a ring at the back or a thumb-piece. Bags are in many respects much safer than formerly. There are some handsome satin and antique bags in envelope shapes with marquisette mounts, many evening bags of fancy brocades with thumb levers, and velvet diamonds required, and other dance bags. Repetitive bags for the daytime are dyed in many colors. Some good inexpensive bags are made of colored morocco, nicely lined with silk.

In the autumn there will be a more formal bag for stockings; already gunmetal color stockings are worn with dark clothes, and also a new shade called blue fox, which is for those who do not like too sombre

Fashion has made up her mind to stick to the close-fitting skull cap or aviation type of hat, and so we see many of these introduced in the new Fall displays. Felt, Velvet and Soleil are the favorites and felt is particularly smart when combined with velvet.

Simplicity is the keynote of the new millinery, but much attention is given to detail such as insets of contrasting materials. Many of the models have little or no trimming, depending entirely upon color and shape for their smartness. Blacks are leading in popularity but some of the smartest shades are tawny birch, Napoleon blue, flaming maple, lacquer red, forest green, chestnut brown and navy.

Cincinnati Scores 6-5 Victory Over Pittsburgh, Leaving the Latter Team on Top With Just One-Half Game Ahead of New York Giants—"Hack" Wilson's Hitting Aids Cubs

Babe Ruth's Two Four-Baggers Spell Success for Yankees Over Bostonians

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Cincinnati gave the pennant aspirants of the Pittsburgh Pirates another jolt today by taking the odd game of a five-game Pittsburgh series, 6-5, with the second-place Giants idle. The defeat narrowed the Pirates' hold on first place to half a game. Hill, who started for Pittsburgh, was wild and was relieved by Dawson in the eighth. Costly fielding fumbles, also figured largely in the Cincinnati scoring.

The Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs divided a double-header at St. Louis. The Cardinals took the first, 6-2, and the Cubs the second, 4-1. The Cardinals are now two games behind first place and one and a half games behind New York, in second place.

Cards swatted Carlson and Nehf for thirteen safeties in the first game, including a home run by Bell, with two on the sixth. The Cubs' batted Riem on top of the box in the fourth inning. In the second game after he allowed three runs, Wilson, Chicago center-fielder, hit his twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth homers of the season in the seventh and ninth innings. No one was on base either time.

The seventh-place Brooklyn Robins and the last-end Phillies divided a double-header at Philadelphia, the Phillies winning the opener, 3-2, and taking the short end of a 4-1 verdict in the second. Babe Herman hit a homer in each contest.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Babe Ruth personally conducted the Yankees to a 12-10 victory over the Red Sox in the last game between the clubs this year before 12,000 fans at Boston. He made two home runs for a total of forty-nine, making him four-up on Gehrig. He hoisted one off McFadyen in the opening stanza, with rope on base. In the sixth, his double drove in two runs and he later scored. In the eighth, with Shaekey on base, he connected with the Harris delivery for another home run.

The Red Sox put over an eight-run attack in the fourth, but could not hold the lead.

COAST LEAGUE
OAKLAND, Sept. 7.—Daring base-running by Jimmy Reese, who scored from second on Bratcher's infield hit to Brady, gave Oakland a 7-6 win and another full game gain on the Seattle Indians, their nearest rivals in the Coast League race. Chick Ellsworth, shortstop, hit a homer with two on bases for Seattle in the fifth.

BRASIL ENDS TUSSE
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—Frank Brail's home run in the last of the ninth inning gave Los Angeles a 7-6 victory over Hollywood in today's game. Teacout pitched only one ball and was charged with the defeat. It was the one Brail slammed into the centerfield bleachers to end the game.

New Ailment Attacks Feet Of Golf Bugs

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Mr. Golfer, do you have sharp pains in the instep and calf of the leg? If you do, the chances are that you are afflicted with the latest orthopedic ailment, commonly called "Furber's foot." Dr. Frank Furber, president of the Illinois Association of Chiropractors, who is here to attend a two-day convention of that association, declared that orthopedic specialists throughout the country have been called upon to give relief to this new condition.

The ailment is caused by extreme extension of the feet while the golfer is in the stance preparing to strike the ball. This puts the weight of the body on the arches of the feet, resulting in unnatural strain, tending to break down the arches and throwing the feet out of alignment, stated Dr. Furber.

VON ELM IS BEATEN IN CALIFORNIA

Donald Moe, 18-Year-Old Oregon Boy, Eliminates Former National Champion Easily at Del Monte

GALLERY STUNNED BY THE OUTCOME

First Round in Match Play in California Amateur Golf Tournament Reached—Results of Contests

DEL MONTE, Sept. 7.—The triumph of Donald Moe, of Portland, Ore., over George von Elm, of Los Angeles, in the first round of match play in the championship flight of the California amateur golf tournament today stunned a gallery which had expected Von Elm, former national champion, to win easily over the seventeen-year-old Oregon boy.

Von Elm had shown his form yesterday in the qualifying round by winning low gross honors with 140, while Moe had finished well down the list. The former champion opened the match today with flashes of his old form, and his opponent was under dog until the latter holes.

Then Moe started a drive which gave him four of the last five holes and won the match. Rudy Wilhelm, of Portland, played good golf to beat Ben Stein, 4 and 2, and Francis Brown, of Honolulu, defeated Captain A. Bullock-Wester, of Los Angeles, 6 and 5.

Other results were: 3. Chandler Egan, of Medford, defeated Harold Thompson, of Glendale, 5 and 4; Johnny McHugh, of San Francisco, defeated Charles Foley, of Salt Lake City, 10 and 8; Heine Schmidt, of Oakland, defeated Jack Wolf, of San Francisco, 4 and 3; "Dink" Templeman, of Stanford University, defeated Johnny Amick, of Los Angeles, 2 and 1; Chuck Gubyer, of Tacoma, defeated Fay Coleman, of Los Angeles, 1 up; Dr. P. Hunter, of Pasadena, defeated Charles Seaver, of Los Angeles, 2 and 1; Frank Dolp, of Portland, beat H. P. Dixon, of Pasadena, 5 and 4.

Walter Hagen will defend the title he won last year, and another nationally known star planned to try their skill.

THOSE "DARK HORSES"
The field will be complicated by the usual number of "dark horses." Players of home town repute, but little national standing, have arisen in almost every tournament this year to threaten the leaders.

The four courses of the Olympia Club will be used and players intending to enter the national open next year will have an opportunity to play under competitive conditions on the course to be used for the 1928 classic.

The field will be cut to sixty-four by thirty-six holes of medal play, eighteen holes each on September 8 and 9. The thirty-six hole final also medal play will be held the following day.

GEO. L. ROBINSON LEADS THE FIELD

Canadian Seniors' Golf Association Championship Tournament Opens at Montreal

MONTREAL, Sept. 7.—George L. Robinson, of the Lambert Golf Club, Toronto, led the field at the end of the first eighteen holes of the thirty-six-hole championship of the Canadian Seniors' Golf Association, which commenced over the Royal Montreal course today. The Lambert golfer was the only one in a field of some 125 competitors to break 80, turning in a card of 60, 39—79.

Two strokes behind the leader was W. G. Ross, from the Royal Montreal Golf Club. He had 41, 40—81. The final round will be contested tomorrow.

Bambino Is Now Stepping Along at Faster Pace Than in 1921

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Babe Ruth's dash to better his own record of fifty-nine home runs in one season, established in 1921, received added momentum today when the Yanks' big gun banged out a pair at Boston for a current total of forty-nine. The Bambino has twenty more games in which to make up the ten home-run deficit.

For the first time in months, Ruth has gained a noticeable advantage on the up and coming Gehrig, who now trails by four of the big swats. Comparison of home-run data in 1921 and now shows that Ruth is stepping along at a faster pace in the present struggle. He has hit twelve homers in the last twenty contests against eight homers during that same interval in 1921. However, he is five homers behind his banner year standing for the number of games played at this time.

Ruth has three homers in the two games at Boston yesterday, and combined with the two today, the five aggregate ties the record for that achievement. Ruth did it once before in 1921. Other like performances are held by Ken Williams, of the Browns, who produced five home runs in three consecutive games in 1922. The record for five was first set by Michael Muldoon, of the Cleveland Nationals, in 1882, and duplicated by Mike Kelly, of the Chicago Nationals, in 1885.

JONES WILL NOT BE TAKING PART
CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The Western open, last major golf tournament of the 1927 season, will open Thursday at Olympia Field Country Club with an entry list which compares favorably with those for the national open and amateur meets.

The outstanding stars will be Tommy Armour, national open champion and acknowledged of the professionals, and Chick Evans, runner-up in the national amateur tourney. Bobby Jones, who won the amateur title at Minneapolis a week ago, will not compete.

Walter Hagen will defend the title he won last year, and another nationally known star planned to try their skill.

BRITISH BOWLERS ARRIVE IN CITY; PLAY HERE TODAY

Party Is Accorded Welcome at Empress Hotel by Officials of Local Bodies—Two Matches Will Be Played on Local Greens—Victoria Rinks Announced for Contests

British Captain Says Such Tours Develop the Spirit of Friendship

Victorians turned out in large numbers last night at the Empress Hotel to welcome the touring bowlers from the British Isles. The party was met at the hotel by officials of the local bodies. Today the visitors will play two matches against the best that Victoria can produce.

The first match will be played at Beacon Hill, and the afternoon match at Burnside bowling greens. Local bowling enthusiasts have anxiously awaited the tour of the British bowlers, and during today's matches it is expected that a large audience will watch every play.

Following the morning contest at the Beacon Hill bowling greens, the party will be taken to Elk Lake as guests of Reeve William Crouch and the Saanich Council. At Hamlettery Lakeside luncheon will be served to the party with the Saanich Council as hosts. Following the luncheon a trip will be made to the Dominion Observatory.

The afternoon games will be played at the Burnside bowling greens. Tea will be served by the ladies of the Burnside Bowling Club.

Tonight a dinner will be given in honor of the visitors at the Hudson's Bay dining-room by the City of Victoria.

TODAY'S PROGRAMME

Today's programme is as follows:
9:00 a.m.—Leave hotel for green.
9:30 a.m.—Match against Victoria Lawn Bowling Club on Beacon Hill Park greens.
12:30 p.m.—Drive to Elk Lake.
1:30 p.m.—Lunch at Hamlettery with Reeve and Council of Saanich.
2:30 p.m.—Drive to Observatory.
3:00 p.m.—Match with associate clubs—Burnside, C.P.R., Victoria, Nanaimo, Duncan—on Burnside greens.
5:00 p.m.—Tea with Burnside Ladies Lawn Bowling Club.
6:00 p.m.—Return to Empress Hotel via George and Johnson Street Bridge.

8:00 p.m.—Civic banquet in the Victorian dining-room of the Hudson's Bay Company.
11:30 p.m.—All aboard the Princess Adelaide.

Mr. Arthur H. Knight, captain of the team, in an interview with a Colonist representative last night, stressed the importance of true sportsmanship as the dominating factor of the tour.

Mr. Knight, who comes from Glasgow, regards the meeting of business men of the two countries as a matter of imperial importance. He stressed the fact that the tour was in all sorts of lines meeting in the realm of sport, and he believes it to be one of the most hopeful signs of the time, both for the world at large and more especially for the nations of the British Empire. He would like to see the project extended to all lines of activity in sport, and made reciprocal, so that visiting teams would share the hospitality of other countries while on tour.

FRIENDSHIPS ON GREEN

Like all of the team, the matter of winning or losing is not a matter of prime importance to Mr. Knight.

Davis Cup Tennis Championships to Commence Today

"Little" Bill Johnston and "Big Bill" Tilden Will Form Main Line of Defence in Challenge Round With France for Historic Trophy on Courts of Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—For the seventh time in eight years of Davis Cup campaigning, "Little Bill" Johnston and "Big Bill" Tilden will form the main line of America's defence in the challenge round battle with France for the historic tennis trophy starting tomorrow on the courts of the Germantown Cricket Club.

As a result of today's draw for the opening two singles matches starting at 2:15 p.m. Johnston will play Lacoste, present holder of the American singles title, after which Tilden will meet his Wimbledon conqueror, Henri Cochet.

These pairings promise plenty of opening drama for a series expected to develop the most formidable challenge to American team supremacy since the famous Australian combination of Brookes and Wilding carried off the trophy in 1914.

The luck of the draw, if any, appears equally divided, for while Johnston's game in the past has always been "poison" to Lacoste, Tilden has found Cochet a nemesis here and abroad within the past year. Doubles match scheduled Friday between teams which will not be officially announced until tomorrow and two singles matches Saturday, the first between Tilden and Lacoste, the second between Johnston and Cochet, will conclude the challenge round.

Possession of the Davis Cup will go to the teams first capturing three matches.

LIKELY TO BE CHOICE

Although it is generally believed that Tilden and Francis T. Hunter, as a result of their Wimbledon and American championship doubles victory, will be choice of the defenders for the doubles, it is thought that Johnston would be paired with Tilden, thus putting the entire defense in the hands of the two "Bills" who brought the cup back from Australia.

Several members of the Davis Cup selection committee were known to favor the Tilden-Johnston combination on the ground that Hunter did not quite measure up to expectations in the National tournament at Boston. Offsetting this, however, is the record of Tilden and Hunter's comparatively decisive march through the National field, plus the fact that they have played together brilliantly all season, and that Tilden personally favors Hunter as his partner in this series.

Except for a single reverse in trial matches two years ago at the hands of the now defunct doubles team of Richard H. Williams and Vincent Richards, Tilden and Johnston never have been beaten in doubles. They paired together, however, for Davis Cup play only in 1926 and 1924.

Knight. Not that this Scot does not like winning or that he does not feel a loss, but he likes the game better than anything else, the friendships he may make on the green and the spirit of imperial fellowship that exists among the men he plays with.

"There is a vernacular in every sport," he says, "and in the vernacular of the green we are able to get closer together in one afternoon than we would in a week if we were restricted to the terms of the office and business. We are all business men, but in the realm of sport we are boys again, and we get to know each other very well. It is the same with all true sport, where the game is the thing."

Mr. Knight suggested that more sport between the British Empire and the United States, a following-up of the present interuniversity sports, would do a great deal to remove any superficial difficulty that might exist.

"We all speak the same language, and we all play the same game, with minor exceptions. I do not see why we should not have more sporting tours between various parts of the Empire and the United States, and I think it would be one of the best things in the world for all of us," he said.

At Powell River the visitors defeated the home bowlers by twenty-three shots. After the game they were entertained at a civic banquet. One of the most interesting features of the tour was, in the opinion of Mr. Thomson, secretary of the party, the visit to the monster works of the Powell River Company. He said that the visitors were shown the manufacture of paper from its first stage in the form of big logs to the finished product.

MALAHAT IMPRESSES

The drive over the Malahat, which was taken in the forenoon, greatly impressed the bowlers from the Old Land.

An interesting on today's game, Mr. Arthur Knight, captain of the party, stated: "We are going out to win, but defeat leaves no sting with a representative of the bowling game. As we reach farther west we come into contact with bowlers and greens with more of the Old Country touch, than in other parts of the Dominion. We look for keen competition, and enjoy having to fight for the victory."

The rinks selected to represent Victoria Club against the British and Ontario bowlers are as follows:

Babe Ruth's Two Four-Baggers Spell Success for Yankees Over Bostonians

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Cincinnati gave the pennant aspirants of the Pittsburgh Pirates another jolt today by taking the odd game of a five-game Pittsburgh series, 6-5, with the second-place Giants leading. The defeat narrowed the Pirates' hold on first place to half a game. Hill, who started for Pittsburgh, was wild and was relieved by Dawson in the eighth. Costly fielding fumbles, also figured largely in the Cincinnati scoring.

The Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs divided a double-header at St. Louis. The Cardinals took the first, 6-2, and the Cubs the second, 8-4. The Cardinals are now two games behind first place and one and a half games behind New York, in second place.

Cards swatted Carlson and Nehf for thirteen safeties in the first game, including a home run by Bell, with two on the sixth. The Cubs' batted Rhen out of the box in the fourth inning of the second game after he allowed the runs. Wilson, Chicago center-fielder, hit his twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth homers of the season in the seventh and ninth innings. No one was on base either time. The seventh-place Brooklyn Robins and the tail-end Phillies divided a double-header at Philadelphia, the Phillies winning the opener, 3-2, and taking the short end of a 4-1 verdict in the second. Babe Herman hit a homer in each contest.

Fine Racing Card Will Be Presented At Colwood Track
Final Horse Race Meet of B.C. Season Opens Saturday and Will Continue for Seven Days—Best Horses That Have Ever Raced on Vancouver Island Will Take Part

British Columbia's final racing meet of the season will be ushered in on Saturday next, when the ponies will gallop on the opening day of the seven-day racing card at Colwood. The one-mile track is in fine condition for the event, and a large crowd is expected to watch the thoroughbred action. The horses will go to the barrier for the first race at 2:30 p.m., rain or shine, and seven well-balanced events will be run off on the afternoon programme. This meet will afford racing enthusiasts the last opportunity of witnessing the popular turf sport this year, and undoubtedly all who enjoy horse racing will be on hand to witness the ponies "doing their stuff." It is anticipated that a large number of racing enthusiasts will be over from Vancouver to see the races on Saturday and next week at Colwood.

PROMINENT STABLES
Among the most prominent stables are J. A. Stone, with fourteen head; H. Fullerton with twelve; C. C. Emmert with fourteen; Owens & Tramer, with fourteen; F. Beban, with nine; B. C. Blagden, with five; Mrs. McLennan, with five; Mrs. A. E. Smith, with six; M. Calwell, with four; M. E. Brown, with five; J. W. McLaughlin, with five; W. C. Marshall, with two; Patterson & Thurman, with nine; J. W. O'Neal with two; Oak Day Stable, with five; I. B. Kutch, with six; Dr. Clark, with five; J. W. Davis, with four; E. Markham, with six; E. McAvoy, with three; Bagley, with two. Besides these there will be another 120 horses on the ground, from the smaller stables.

BEST HORSES TO RACE
By far the best horses that have ever raced on Vancouver Island will take part in this meet at Colwood. Hon. T. O. Coventry, M.P.P., manager of the Colwood Park Racing Association, intimated last night. More than 200 head are already stabled at Colwood, and another fifty are due to arrive in the city today. Some of the surplus horses will be stabled at the Willows.

The most noticeable circumstance about the ponies that will participate in the closing Colwood meet is the absence of cheap horses and the predominance of high class performers.

New Ailment Attacks Feet Of Golf Bugs

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Mr. C. Goller, do you have sharp pains in the instep and call of the leg? If you do, the chances are that you are afflicted with the latest orthopedic ailment, commonly called "Folger's foot." Dr. Frank Purch, president of the Illinois Association of Chiropractors, who is here to attend a two-day convention of the association, declared that orthopedic specialists throughout the country have been called upon to give relief to this new condition.

The ailment is caused by extreme extension of the foot while the golf player is in the stance preparing to strike the ball. This puts the weight of the body on the arches of the feet, resulting in unusual strain, tending to break down the arches and throwing the feet out of alignment, stated Dr. Purch.

MR. ERNIE CULL ON VISIT HERE
Renews Old Acquaintances in City as He Goes to South Today—Prominent in Local Sports
Mr. Ernest Cull, of Hollywood, Cal., who, for many years, has been spending a few days in Victoria as a guest of his father, Mr. Robert E. Cull, 2002 Byron Street, Oak Bay, and has been renewing old acquaintances here. He motored up from the South, and will leave here today on his return trip to California.

FOOTBALL
Football, basketball and running were three of the particular forms of sports that Mr. Cull participated in while he resided here. Especially in running did he possess an excellent record, and there was scarcely a long-distance race held in Victoria that did not find "Ernie" taking part.

Probably Mr. Cull's greatest achievement in this athletic sphere was his fine showing in Vancouver during May, 1921, when the British Columbia championships were held there. The best runners in the province competed for the honors, and Mr. Cull secured third place in the eight-mile championship race around Stanley Park. Twenty-six runners started in this event.

Football, basketball and running were three of the particular forms of sports that Mr. Cull participated in while he resided here. Especially in running did he possess an excellent record, and there was scarcely a long-distance race held in Victoria that did not find "Ernie" taking part.

Probably Mr. Cull's greatest achievement in this athletic sphere was his fine showing in Vancouver during May, 1921, when the British Columbia championships were held there. The best runners in the province competed for the honors, and Mr. Cull secured third place in the eight-mile championship race around Stanley Park. Twenty-six runners started in this event.

MR. CULL SHOWED HIS PROFICIENCY and ability in other branches of sport besides running. His record on the football field was a good one. He performed creditably with the Yarrow, Metropolis and O.P.R. football teams, and captained the latter aggregation when it secured its way to the football finals, only to be beaten for the championship by a one-goal margin.

Basketball was the game through Mr. Cull's presence in the community. He was for some years one of the mainstays of the Crusaders' basketball quintette, which earned a local reputation as a basketball team of no mean account. Ernie performed both on the forward and guard lines, and has played with equal success in the respective positions. He is a clean player and has won the esteem and friendship of all who take an interest in sport in Victoria.

DAVIS CUP TENNIS Championships to Commence Today
"Little" Bill Johnston and "Big Bill" Tilden Will Form Main Line of Defence in Challenge Round With France for Historic Trophy on Courts of Philadelphia
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—For the seventh time in eight years of Davis Cup campaigning, "Little Bill" Johnston and "Big Bill" Tilden will form the main line of America's defence in the challenge round battle with France for the historic tennis trophy starting tomorrow on the courts of the Germantown Cricket Club.

As a result of today's draw for the opening two singles matches starting at 2:15 p.m. Johnston will play Lacoste, present holder of the American singles title, after which Tilden will meet his Wimbledon conqueror, Henri Cochet.

These pairings promise plenty of opening drama for a series expected to develop the most formidable challenge to American team supremacy since the famous Australian combination of Brookes and Wilding carried off the trophy in 1914.

The luck of the draw, if any, appears equally divided, for while Johnston's game in the past has always been "poison" to Lacoste, Tilden has found Cochet a nemesis here and abroad within the past year. Doubles match scheduled Friday between teams which will not be officially announced until tomorrow and two singles matches Saturday, the first between Tilden and Lacoste, the second between Johnston and Cochet, will conclude the challenge round.

Possession of the Davis Cup will go to the teams first capturing three matches.

LIKELY TO BE CHOICE
Although it is generally believed that Tilden and Francis T. Hunter, as a result of their Wimbledon and American championship doubles victory, will be choice of the defenders for the doubles, it is thought that Johnston would be paired with Tilden, thus putting the entire defense in the hands of the two "Bills" who brought the cup back from Australia.

Several members of the Davis Cup selection committee were known to favor the Tilden-Johnston combination on the ground that Hunter did not quite measure up to expectations in the National tournament at Boston. Offsetting this, however, is the record of Tilden and Hunter's comparatively decisive march through the National field, plus the fact that they have played together brilliantly all season and that Tilden personally favors Hunter as his partner in this series.

There is not a single reverse in trial matches two years ago at the hands of the now defunct doubles team of Richard N. Williams and Vincent Richards. Tilden and Johnston never have been beaten in doubles. They paired together, however, for Davis Cup play only in 1926 and 1924.

AGAINST TORONTO
J. L. White, J. E. Day, W. McAllan, H. Ferguson (skip).
L. A. Stewart, J. E. Johnson, F. W. Davey, O. D. Bryce (skip).
The following players are chosen by the Associated Clubs of Burnside, C.P.R., Victoria, Nanaimo and Duncan to play at the Burnside greens today against the tourists:

Jones Takes Kick Out Of Competitive Golf

Walter Hagen Asserts That No Golfer, Amateur or Professional, Stands a Chance With Bobby in 72-Hole Contest

By WALTER HAGEN
(Copyright, 1927, in all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.)
This is one of a series of timely articles being written for The Colonist and North American Newspaper Alliance by the man who has held the American professional golf championship since 1925, and who twice won both the British and American open championships.

Bobby Jones has taken the competitive kick out of amateur golf. His one-sided victory in the recent amateur championship at Minneapolis eliminated the element of competition.

He slaughtered his opponents with such ease that the only thing the spectators could do was to marvel at the wonderful exhibition of the Atlanta player.

No golfer has ever dominated his field as Jones dominates the amateur golfers of America today. His only competition now seems to be with the professionals. Just at present he has the edge over all of us.

There is no golfer living, amateur or professional, who stands a chance to beat Jones in a seventy-two-hole competition at either match or medal play.

Jones' golf is so perfect that he needs nothing but his strokes to win. He is about a two to one shot to equal or beat par on any golf course, and any player who is going that good simply cannot be beaten over a long test.

The scores made by Jones for the number of holes he went in the semi-final round with Francis Ouimet shows that he would have been one up on the best ball of the three other semi-finalists.

GOOD FOR YEARS

As long as the amateur championship is contested with a seeded draw, with two eighteen-hole matches and three thirty-six-hole matches Jones is almost sure to win. He has won three out of the last four championships and was the runner-up in the fourth. He only lost this title by the thin margin of two and one to George Von Elm.

Jones should remain at the top of his game for years to come. The outlook for other amateurs is very depressing. None of the present players appear to have a chance with Jones.

The recent championship brought out two good prospects from the Metropolitan district in Eugene Homans and Phillips Finlay.

Roland MacKenzie, of Washington, is another golfer with great possibilities. His only weakness is on the putting greens, where he does not appear to be at home. He lacks confidence in putting and has not mastered a smooth stroke, such as Jones and Ouimet possess. In professional golf Johnny Farrell has mastered the proper putting stroke.

TRIO DEADLY PUTTERS

Jones, Ouimet and Farrell are all deadly putters, especially at distances of from ten to twenty feet. They hole a large number of putts at these distances, and if they fail to hole the ball they can be counted upon to give the cup a scare.

MacKenzie was not coming close to the hole from these distances. His putts were more of the trust-to-luck variety. He should be able to acquire the proper putting stroke and when he does he will lower his score from two to three strokes per round.

Chick Evans deserves a great deal of credit for his golf at Minneapolis. He was pleased when he reached the final round, and he will be remembered that Chick Evans reached the final round of the same championship in 1912 and that after a span of fifteen years, a period during which the game has gained tremendous force in the matter of competition as well as in the number of players Evans is still able to reach the finals.

EVANS PLAYED GREAT GOLF

Evans played fine golf at Minneapolis. He had more distance off the tee than he had for some time. His play was as good as ever. His putting was the weakest part of his game, but the rest of it was so good he was able to reach the finals in a very tough field.

Chick has a long way to go yet and only for the strength of Jones would he be as good a bet as any other player to win the championship.

George Voight, of Washington, was the most unfortunate player in the championship.

After being barred from amateur competition in Washington, the United States Golf Association, which, after all said and done, is a very just and fair-minded body of gentlemen, investigated and found that Voight was entitled to amateur ranking, and he started in the amateur championship.

The little trouble about Voight's standing must have upset him somewhat. Then in the qualifying rounds he was the victim of a misfortune which was caused by something he had no control over. His opponent's ball struck his ball on the putting green and moved it a few inches. Voight, like many other players who lack considerable tournament experience, did not know what to do about it, and he elected to putt the ball where it rested and then to putt it a second time from the spot it rested being moved by his opponent's ball.

VOIGHT'S HARD LUCK

He holed for a two with the moved ball and for a three with the ball at the other spot. Following this rumors flew thick and fast. There were rumors that Voight had been disqualified, and these came bouncing out to George as he was playing the last nine holes. "Small wonder he could not concentrate on his game," said a few-foresighted strokes to come in and failed to qualify by two strokes.

No one was to blame for this incident. It was just an unfortunate circumstance, and a veteran tournament player well versed in the rules of the game would have known just what to do in the situation and not been annoyed by any outside influences.

There is no doubt that the affair prevented the Washington golfer from qualifying, but he took it in a very fine manner, and said that he could wait for another year. Voight is a fine golfer, and I would have liked to see him in the match play at Minneapolis.

TILDEN FACES HARD BATTLE

BIG BILL FACES PROSPECTS OF MEETING FRENCH STARS IN SUCCESSION

American Singles Tennis Crown is Objective in Tourney at Forest Hills—Lacoste Present Holder

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Big Bill Tilden faces the prospect of battling the French Musketeers of tennis on successive days in his attempt to win back the American singles championship now held by Rene Lacoste, of France.

This was indicated today when the draw of sixty-four players was made for the tournament starting September 10 at Forest Hills. It showed Boris Becker and Lacoste seeded in such manner that they will battle Tilden's path in the quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals, respectively, providing none of the four are previously eliminated. If form prevails, "Little Bill" Johnson will be Lacoste's semi-final opponent, so that it is possible that the little Californian may be the one to meet Tilden in the finals. If "Big Bill" gets by his other rivals.

Tilden's first opponent will be Fritz Murer, of Ohio University player, who eliminated Manuel Alonso at Seabright. Next, he probably will meet Berkeley Belle, Dallas, Texas, youngster Yoshiro Ohta, of the Japanese Davis Cup team, a seeded player, and then three crack Frenchmen with a dramatic Lacoste battle looming, if he can get past the others.

Lacoste opens against Frank Cowen, of Atlanta, and then takes on probably Neil Sullivan, of Lehigh, George Lott, Chicago, who beat him a few weeks ago at Southampton. Manuel Alonso, second in the National ranking, "Little Bill" Johnson, and Tilden.

Of the French players, Lacoste was placed first with Cochet next, then Boris, Jacques Brugnot, French Davis Cup doubles player; Jean Washer, Belgian champion; Jack Wright, Canadian champion; Yoshiro Ohta and Ryuki Miki, of the Japanese Davis Cup team.

DETROIT, Sept. 7.—Miss Helen Henschel, a twenty-one-year-old New York swimming instructor, piloted a tiny hydroplane, the Whale, to a new world's record for Class C outboard motors, in the closing event of the annual gold cup speedboat regatta here. Miss Henschel's boat negotiated six nautical miles, three against current and three with it, in a race against time, at an average of 30.816 miles per hour. The former record was established by a 29.316 miles per hour.

Miss Zinke defeated Virginia Hillary, Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-3. Miss Cruikshank defeated Marjorie Sachs, Boston, 6-1, 6-1. MINERS WIN FROM MILLMEN

Rossland Evens the Series Against Fraser Mills in Provincial Championship Series at Vancouver

FINAL IS SET FOR FRIDAY

VANCOUVER, Sept. 7.—Lusty clouting at the expense of Doug Muscutt and a comedy of errors staged by the latter's helpers gave Rossland Miners a 6-to-5 victory over Fraser Mills here this evening. Darknes halted the battle after eight innings just as the Miners' final bid fell a tally short. The win evened the series, and the teams meet again Friday evening at the same place.

Don McKenzie, the Miners' star right-hander, was wild in spots, but hurled fair ball. He outpitched Muscutt, the latter's support, knocking him out of all chances. McKenzie, on the other hand, was saved several times by brilliant fielding. Burke, in centrefield, took six flies and in addition contributed a triple and a single.

It was a free hitting affair, no less than eighteen innings being hit out by the Miners during the game. Dupion, Burke and Malsky were the extra sack swatmiths.

Until the sixth frame, when the Miners put four runs across the pan, it was a close game.

MINERS WIN FROM MILLMEN

Rossland Evens the Series Against Fraser Mills in Provincial Championship Series at Vancouver

FINAL IS SET FOR FRIDAY

VANCOUVER, Sept. 7.—Lusty clouting at the expense of Doug Muscutt and a comedy of errors staged by the latter's helpers gave Rossland Miners a 6-to-5 victory over Fraser Mills here this evening. Darknes halted the battle after eight innings just as the Miners' final bid fell a tally short. The win evened the series, and the teams meet again Friday evening at the same place.

Don McKenzie, the Miners' star right-hander, was wild in spots, but hurled fair ball. He outpitched Muscutt, the latter's support, knocking him out of all chances. McKenzie, on the other hand, was saved several times by brilliant fielding. Burke, in centrefield, took six flies and in addition contributed a triple and a single.

It was a free hitting affair, no less than eighteen innings being hit out by the Miners during the game. Dupion, Burke and Malsky were the extra sack swatmiths.

Until the sixth frame, when the Miners put four runs across the pan, it was a close game.

Ask Proper Examination Of Coal Mine Products

Nanaimo Council to Petition Government—Mr. Harry Freeman Awakens Citizens to Possibilities of District's Natural Wealth

NANAIMO, Sept. 7.—The City Council last evening was in receipt of the following communication from Mr. Victor B. Harrison in respect to coal by-products:

"That you petition the Provincial Government to make arrangements for the proper testing of the coals of British Columbia for their by-product values, with the object of increasing the demand for the commodity upon which this city depends to such a marked degree."

"Mr. Harry Freeman, formerly of this city, displayed at the Vancouver Exhibition a surprising example of the possibilities of our coals. He has drawn off the heavy and light oils contained therein, and found that British Columbia coals, including those of this locality, would produce excellent fuel oils, which would meet the competition of the imported oils that have so badly reduced the demand for coal. He made the public statement that our coals were higher in by-products than any others on the continent."

"It would, therefore, appear that the work which Mr. Freeman has started should be followed up in the interests of future production and demand for coal, and I would respectfully suggest that the Mayor and Council of Nanaimo bring the possibilities so demonstrated officially before the Government with the request that Mr. Freeman or some other competent coal engineer be employed to further explore the possibilities indicated."

MANUFACTURING FUTURE
"With definite and detailed information on this subject, Nanaimo might well become a big manufacturing centre, securing the raw materials required from our mines."

ARROWSMITH NOT IN KINDLY MOOD

Wind and Wet Make Hard Climb for Party of Mount Arrowsmith—Muggins Safely Rescued

CAMERON LAKE, Sept. 7.—At about 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon a party of seven left Cameron Lake to go up Mount Arrowsmith. The leader was Mr. C. L. Harrison, who came equipped with food, provisions, rope, blankets, etc., intending to spend two nights away. Although the weather was exceedingly doubtful, the party was not deterred from their plans, and went off in good spirits.

Mrs. Harrison accompanied her husband and the rest of the party consisted of Mr. J. Gibson, Mr. K. Preiswerk, Mr. N. D'Arcy, all of Victoria, Miss Marion Coote, of Vancouver, and Mr. G. Mead, of the Elk Lake. Mr. Preiswerk, a native of Switzerland, has had previous experience and described the club-houses erected at convenient places in the mountains in his own country.

The packing of the equipment was no small undertaking, the ladies taking about twenty pounds and the men about thirty-five pounds each. A packer was engaged to take up about forty-five pounds to reach the party later.

On arrival at the cabin it was decided to stay there for the night. Although this shelter was originally well built, it has suffered at the hands of vandals who supplied thought of their own convenience first to the detriment of those who should follow. About half of the flooring has been torn up, probably being used for firewood. Luckily the roof is watertight, but as there is no stove the discomfort from the smoke when a fire is lighted on the stove base is very trying, as only a portion of it escapes through the opening made originally for the stove pipe.

The original plan was to camp out in silk tents on Mount Cokely, but owing to the unusual heavy rains it was found impossible to find a suitable place. All night the rain continued to come down in torrents, and next morning, in spite of the weather, Mount Cokely was scaled and the party passed on down by Ice Lake and all but the final peak of Mount Arrowsmith was reached. Throughout the entire distance a hailstorm, with rain, prevailed, accompanied by a strong wind, blowing at an estimated rate of sixty miles per hour. It was necessary at times to crouch on the rocks to save being blown over, and in some places it was so terrific that small stones were blown out of place. The visibility, owing to the fog and rain, was naturally poor, and this, coupled with the fact that the party was drenched to the skin, decided their return to the Chalet.

Two other climbers had left Cameron Lake early on Sunday morning, but turned back at Mount Cokely as they considered it unsafe to proceed. They had come in contact with the larger party and brought word that the others would be down at 3:30 p.m.

The packer arrived soon after this, and later the others came in, but not all together. However, the kind hostess at the Chalet knew what to expect and had fires going, hot water for baths and tea prepared. In one case a set of clothing was provided to save the unfortunate one from having to go to bed. The effects of the warmth and refreshments were wonderful, and the spirits rose accordingly, and soon there was a jolly party getting ready for the evening meal.

There was, however, one great trouble in the minds of some; the question was being asked, "Where is Muggins?" Muggins is the Chalet dog, petted and loved by hundreds who have visited Cameron Lake. Muggins had started from the cabin with two of the ladies and turned back. The anxiety was the more intense because Muggins generally sees the climbers down first, and then runs on to the Chalet. But morning came and still Muggins had not returned.

Shortly after the Victoria party had left for home, a man and a boy with a dog started up the trail to find

MAPLE BAY TO HAVE ITS ROAD IMPROVED

Tarriating to Be Carried Out Next Year—Tax Penalty Reduction Opposed

DUNCAN, Sept. 7.—At yesterday's meeting of the North Cowichan Council, a petition was received from twenty-one residents of the Maple Bay district, urging the council to have done the necessary preparatory work required to enable tarriating being laid next year from where it now ends on Quamichan Lake Road through to and including the turning point at the Maple Inn. The council agreed that this work should be done.

The council decided to apply for a lease of 77 of an acre of Crown Lands at the end of D Street, Maple Bay, to give the municipality control of the wharf site at that point. The council's delegates to the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention were instructed to oppose the proposal of the North Vancouver council for a reduction of the tax penalty in connection with delinquent taxes.

Mr. G. H. Johnson, assistant clerk, had his salary raised to $100 per month.

Young People Picnic

KEATING, Sept. 7.—Members of the Young People's Societies of the Sidney and South Saanich United Churches spent a very pleasant afternoon on Monday when they enjoyed a picnic at St. Margaret's Bay, Gordon Head. In spite of the threatening weather, a good crowd assembled at the church and left together for the picnic place.

The afternoon was spent under a bonfire on the beach until supper time. After this had been enjoyed the party assembled in the Summer home of Rev. and Mrs. M. Lees, where community singing was indulged in.

CHILDREN'S SPORTS

The usual children's sports were held under the supervision of members of the Elks Lodge, who gave the children the best time of the year, every child being given a small sum of money, admitting to the grounds and allowing him or her to buy something at the stalls. In the evening the adults held their sports. The five-a-side football games attracted much attention, the Davenport, from Nanaimo, proving the winners. One of the Ladysmith men had the misfortune to break his collar bone. The boxing bouts were won by Johnny Williams, of Alberni, and "Kid" Stubbs, of Port Alberni.

The Labor Day Derby proved very exciting. Comet won the race by selling from Alberni Kid, and Mrs. Bradley was the lucky winner of the drawing. The dance in the evening was attended by one of the largest crowds which has ever attended a dance in the community. McLean's Community Orchestra provided the music, and the Vancouver Scottish Band and four dancers entertained the large crowd during the day.

D.F.A. SHOULD SUPPLY BALLS

CALGARY SCHOOL AUTHORITIES FAVOR ENCOURAGING SOCCER

Officers of Parent Body Are Elected—President Controls That League Control Over Affairs

CALGARY, Sept. 7.—Local school authorities agree with the principle of the Dominion Football Association that soccer be encouraged in public schools, and suggest that from the local point of view the best way to do this is for the D.F.A. to donate footballs, which constitute the largest part of the expense. It was pointed out that soccer has been encouraged in the Calgary schools for the last fifteen years and that this fall there will be fifty teams playing in the school league. President John Russell contended that each district league control its own affairs regarding suspensions, etc., until such time as the districts were combined in the play-off series, or through a separate plan of inter-city football.

H. McIntyre, representing the National Football League of Ontario and Quebec, asked the D.F.A. to approve a plan whereby a club could have two teams, one a "feeder" but all players signed under one club. No objection was offered.

GOLFERS PLAY IN STEADY DOWNPOUR

Mr. Cornell, of Seattle, Breaks Course Record at Qualicum—Over 200 Take Part

Despite the downpour of rain a large number entered the golf tournament at the Qualicum Beach golf course on Labor Day. Mr. Cornell, of Seattle, won the men's net, by breaking the record for the course, while Mr. Havemeyer, Mr. Watts-Jones and Mr. Charles Wilson, of Victoria, tied for second and third places. Over two hundred cards were taken out during the tournament. Mrs. Charles Wilson and Mrs. Havemeyer played pluckily through the rain on Sunday. Miss Ruth McBride surprised a large gallery waiting at the ninth hole for the last cards to come in. She turned in a fine score of 45 gross, which gave her a 31 net. She practically had to run around the last three holes in order to get her card in before 4 o'clock, which was the time set for the close of the tournament.

THREE FIGHTERS END UP IN JAIL

Jack Johnson, Striking and Diegel Spent Night With Police After Bout Is Stopped

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 7.—Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion of the world; W. L. Striking, the "Georgia Schoolboy"; and Lee Diegel, of Oklahoma, awoke this morning to find themselves behind the cold grey bars of Omaha's city jail.

The three spent the night with police after the Striking-Diegel bout was stopped by the referee in the sixth round, and after Johnson announced to the 5,000 spectators that he would "knock out" both Striking and Diegel in two rounds.

The fight, which was to have lasted ten rounds, was a slow affair throughout. Neither boxer seemed willing to fight, and Referee Jimmy Drexel warned them three times not to stall. Finally, in the sixth round, he stopped the fight, announcing that it was "no contest." When he had finished, Johnson, who was in Diegel's corner, issued a challenge to the two fighters.

Before Johnson could say any more and before the crowd could realize what had happened, police arrested the three men and took them to the police station, where they were held for investigation, and held without bond for a hearing today.

Both Striking and Diegel said they could not see why they were stopped and they were doing their best.

"Pa" Striking, manager for Young Striking, said he knew he should not have come to Omaha as it was a tough spot for fights, and that he had turned down previous offers.

"Even Boiling Is Unnecessary" Says Mrs. Debney

"My grocer got me to try Rinso, and when I saw how much work it saved by soaking clothes clean, I knew why so many women were talking about it. It makes the wash snowy white, without any hard rubbing whatever. Even boiling is unnecessary and that saves gas bills. One of my friends uses it in her washing machine. You should hear her praise Rinso."

MRS. R. G. DEBNEY,
361 McRoberts Ave.,
Toronto, Ont.

Clothes snowy, dazzling white - just by soaking

It's really amazing. Millions of women are getting new, glorious results on washday . . . in half the time, with half the work . . . merely by soaking the clothes clean in Rinso. They are loud in their praises, and write the makers thousands of letters of appreciation like the one above.

Rinso soaks white clothes whiter, colored clothes brighter, everything cleaner, than you could get them by rubbing, scrubbing and boiling . . . the old-fashioned methods.

Even the most ground-in dirt at cuffs and edges disappears with a gentle rub.

Rinso contains nothing to hurt clothes or hands . . . no acids, bleach or harsh chemicals.

The makers of the eleven leading washing machines, after thoroughly testing it, highly recommend Rinso. Try Rinso just once . . . and you'll see why so many women write to tell how pleased they are.

POPULARITY OF PRINCE IS WIDESPREAD

Heir to Italian Throne Likes Sports, Jazz, Heroes of Aviation, and Is Favorite With His People

WOULD LIKE TO GO LONG FLIGHT

Yachtsman, Bibliophile, Collector, Scholar and Sailor, Umberto Sees Italy as New Yachting Centre

By EDWARD STORER
Special correspondent of The Colonist and North American Review

TURIN, Italy, Sept. 7.—Humbert of Savoy, Prince of Piedmont, and heir to the Italian throne, who moved into the old Royal Palace here upon coming of age September 15, 1925, enjoys a popularity in Italy that is constantly increasing.

Good-looking, tall, and with a winning smile, the Italian Crown Prince has won a real place in the affections of his people.

To obtain first hand a picture of the Prince Humbert and his court I applied for an audience. My request was graciously granted. I was instructed to present myself at the large, brick-red palace that houses the Prince and his suite.

The palace was guarded by carabinieri resplendent in black, crimson and silver uniforms. Two infantry sentinels were on duty at the gate.

Unhindered into an ante-room, I conversed with two aides until the Prince was ready to receive me. The Prince has four aides, Captain Sovera, Captain Sestini, Captain Olivetti and Captain De Rossi di Sanmaria. Two are army captains, one an aviation captain and the fourth a naval captain. Captain Sovera took me into the reception room.

Prince Humbert was standing near a window. He is a tall, slender young man. He motioned me to come forward, greeted me and asked me to be seated.

Talking with the Prince is easy. He gives one the impression of having met one before. He speaks the fine accentless English which the royal and noble families of Europe seem to maintain as a kind of perquisite. Neither Oxford nor Yale, Cambridge nor just good, gracious English without affectation or emphasis.

FOND OF SKIING
The Prince agreed to be questioned. We spoke first of sports. Skiing, tennis and flying are the Prince's favorites.

"I am very fond of the snow," the Prince said. "I love skiing especially. In winter I often go to Claviesse or Bardonecchia. These are villages in the Alps near Turin. It's great fun, and one of the best sports imaginable." Alpine adventures the Prince disclaimed, though he spoke of thrilling chamois hunting on the King's Alpine preserves, the finest in the country.

Seeing my glance resting upon the many old masters and a collection of China which is one of his minor interests, the Prince asked if I should care to see his rooms.

Moving to a door to the right he opened the green shutters of a new wing revealing a beautiful vista of the palace gardens framed in sub-Alpine hills.

"Nice view, isn't it?" he said. "That hill over there," he added, indicating some of the chapel-crowned many that surround Turin, "is where my family is buried."

The Prince then showed me his study and work table.

"Would Your Highness like to go to the United States?" I asked.

"Yes, indeed, I should," he replied. "And I hope to one day. But if I go, I should like to stay a while and see the country. I shouldn't care to go only for ten days or a fortnight's visit. Probably I shall make the trip some day, though nothing of the kind is under consideration at present."

A moment earlier we had mentioned Lindbergh, Chamberlain and Byrd, for whom the Prince had expressed great admiration. Coupling this with our new turn in the conversation he said:

"I'll fly there, perhaps."

"This was said in fun, but there was something in the Prince's voice that made me feel that he will fly if provided the opportunity."

PRINCE A JAZZ DANCER
The Prince's bedroom proved to be a square chamber, some thirteen or fifteen yards across. A big talking machine stood on a table.

"Does Your Highness like modern dance music?" I asked.

The Prince said he liked both music and dancing.

"And Your Highness' favorite dance—is it fox trot or Charleston?" I like them both," he replied. "I'm quite keen on them; they're great fun."

The Prince then told me that he buys regularly all the modern dance records soon as they arrive in Turin. His friends say he is a fine dancer.

Enthusiastic conversation revealed the Prince as a lover of classical and operatic music. He plays the piano.

Prince Humbert's real enthusiasm is for book collecting, a taste he inherits from his father. History is his favorite subject. Among the many books in the handsome collection he has made for himself are a number of classical historical works, monographs on famous persons and rare pamphlets on the lives of notable men of the past, mostly kings and statesmen, soldiers and patriots, both Italian and foreign.

"My special collection," said the Prince, "is that on my own family. I have books in many languages concerning my family. I believe my collection is larger even than my father's."

In our conversation the Prince always referred to the House of Savoy as "my family," and to King Victor as "my father."

COLLECTION IS HOBBY
The Prince then showed me his collection of pictures, portraits and prints of members of the House of Savoy. This has been his special hobby for the last two or three years. Its importance is now generally recognized by experts. In addition to the pictures the Prince has a large collection of medals, medals and brooches. He is his own archivist for the collection.

CROWN PRINCE OF ITALY

The Prince told me that he follows the British and American literary reviews and the literary pages of the newspapers with interest and that he keeps in close touch with new historical books in English.

Modern Italian literature the Prince knows well. He is especially fond of Pirandello, whom he received at the Palace last year when the dramatist and his company played in Turin.

The talk returned to sports. The Prince likes motoring. He has four cars of Italian manufacture. He drives a good deal himself. He has his own names for his cars. They are Lion, Panther, Tiger and Leopard.

YACHTING ATTRACTS HIM
Yachting is a sport to which the Prince felt that he was naturally attracted. We talked of the recent regattas at Naples and elsewhere. I asked if he did not think that they would tend to attract the larger yachts to Italian waters.

"Certainly," said Prince Humbert. "Our Italian waters offer a splendid centre for yachting, but of course the distance from the famous resorts of England and France make it difficult for foreigners to come and compete here. At the same time, I don't think there could be a lovelier or more suitable stretch of water for yachting than the Bay of Naples."

The growing importance of Italian yachting captured the Prince's enthusiasm.

"I think if other nations sent their yachts in larger numbers and bigger regattas," he added, "they would be surprised at the progress of our yachting. It has made great steps of late years."

The Prince speaks four languages apart from Italian: English, French, Spanish and German.

"I am really only conversant with German," he said. "French is my best foreign language, and then English. Here in Turin, I do not have much opportunity of speaking Eng-

PRINCE SERVES IN INFANTRY
The time allocated for by audience was running out. We started back for the large reception room. My audience was the last of the morning. I had been preceded by a Monsignor, principal of the aristocratic college of Moncalieri, near Turin, and by the Governor of one of the Italian colonies. The Prince was in the uniform of a major of infantry.

"My regiment is leaving Turin tonight," he explained, "to march by stages to Cesano, where there will be some evolutions of troops at which I shall be present."

The Prince's regiment, the 90th, is stationed at Turin. He attends to his military duties every day, taking his turn of service with the other officers.

I was told also that when in residence at Turin, Prince Humbert telephones King Victor every evening and has a ten-minute or so chat with his father.

Back in the reception room, the Prince dismissed me with the smile that is one of the most charming characteristics of the young man of twenty-three, who will one day rule regenerated Italy.

Men of H.M.S. Colombo Hosts at Jolly Dance

Seldom has there been a more enjoyable and thoroughly jolly dance at the Alexandra ballroom than that of the ship's company of

H.M.S. Colombo which took place last evening, when scores of naval uniforms of the men added a distinctive note to the affair.

The excellent music was played by the ship's band, which generously responded to repeated entreaties from the crowd. Supper was served in the dining-room downstairs, the tables being decorated with bright and pretty flowers.

North Saanich Social Club to Banquet

The North Saanich Social Club held their regular card party and social evening in the club rooms, School Cross Roads, on Saturday night. There was a good attendance of members and their friends, who spent a most enjoyable time at progressive five hundred, which was played at thirteen tables. The ladies' prize was presented to Mrs. Lorenzen and the men's prize was awarded to Mr. N. Fralick. At the conclusion of the game refreshments were served by the supper committee. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, the music being supplied by the club's orchestra.

Saanich Club Social

SIDNEY, Sept. 7.—The third annual banquet of the North Saanich Social Club will be held in the club rooms, School Cross Roads, on Saturday evening, September 10 at 7 o'clock. On previous occasions the hall has been filled to capacity for the banquet, which has proved to be the most popular of the club's social activities, bringing together at least once during the year the entire number, with very few exceptions, of the club's members. Ald. Jas. Adam has promised to be present and address the younger members on "Sportsmanship and the Development of Athletics." Mr. Smith, the new principal of the North Saanich School, has also promised to be present, and Mr. B. C. Nicholas will propose the toast to the club and Mr. Geo. Mitchell the toast to the ladies.

The following artists have consented to take part in the entertainment: Miss Mabel Humphreys, contralto; Miss Kathleen Craig, elocutionist; Mr. Douglas Horth, tenor; Mr. Dick Woods, baritone; and Mr. Ken McKenzie, Scottish humorist. The challenge cups for the children of club members will be presented during the evening, and the Ladies' Auxiliary have charge of the banquet, and all members are asked to be at the club at seven o'clock sharp. Any member who has unavoidably been overlooked and not received an invitation, is asked to communicate with the secretary.

Shower at Sidney

SIDNEY, Sept. 7.—Miss Edith Whiting, Sixth Street, entertained at a delightful china shower on Friday evening in honor of Miss Nancy Simister, a popular bride-elect. The evening passed pleasantly at games and music, after which Mr. Whiting called the guests to survey the new "Miss Nancy Service Station" in front of which was a realistic gas tank. When little Irene Long drove up in a little car for gas, it developed, much to Miss Simister's surprise and pleasure, that the tank concealed a number of lovely and useful gifts. In just a few words Miss Simister thanked the guests for their kindness, and the party retired to the dining-room, where the dining refreshments were served. The decorations, which had been carried out by Mrs. Shade, caused many complimentary remarks, and presented a very pretty effect. Over the table was a large paper bell, in shades of coral and silver, softly illuminated with colored electric lights. The table was centered with a two-tier wedding cake and bouquets of yellow daisies and tall yellow candles in brass scones. The invited guests included: Mesdames B. Burton, J. McDaniel, E. McKenzie, Williamson, Shade, Thompson (Victoria), McAdams, Parker, H. Horth, W. Whiting, F. Simister, J. Mitchell, H. McIntyre, May, Brethour, and Misses Blanche May, Margaret Cochran, M. Anderson, Iris Goddard, Amy Livesey, Florence Hambley, Rose Matthews, Pattie and Grace Simister, Gladys Spencer (Seattle), M. Love, Thompson (Victoria), Edith Whiting, Myria Moore and Irene Long.

SAANICH PAPERCHASE

SIDNEY, Sept. 7.—The Ladies' Auxiliary arranged a very enjoyable paper chase on Monday afternoon for the children of club members. The hares, John Lawson and Clifford Hill, left from Bagan Bay and led the fourteen hounds a merry two-hour cross-country chase, finishing up in fine style at the Pacific Bay beach, where lemonade and cake were served to them by the ladies.
